NEW YORK, April 8.—The stock market took place on the New York Stock Exchange in the last hour of trading today after repeated efforts of speculators for the advance to maintain bullish enthusiasm by bringing forward new issues. Scores of active issues, including most of the recent leaders in the public utility, oil and gas, sold down 1 to 4 cents below yesterday's final quotations, with larger declines in a handful of specialties. Final quotations also disclosed a small outcrop of gains, particularly in the amusement and motor groups.
Trading showed a marked fall-off in volume, the day's sales running around 4,700,000 shares.

Prediction of a drop in the unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation to be made publicly on Thursday and disappointing air traffic were stressed as causing factors, although observers generally characterized the reaction as necessary correction of an up-beat speculative position.
U. S. Steel common was under pressure most of the day, closing points lower at 19 1/2. Bethlehem received good support, pending the outcome of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube stockholders' meeting, which was postponed until this evening.
Youngstown Sheet & Tube and Mingo Fuel closed about 2 cents lower.

Utilities Are Down.
Public utilities also were rather hit. American Telephone and Telegraph 4 points and Public Services of New Jersey, American & Penn Power, Federal Light & Power, St. Louis & Webster and Midway Union Gas closed 2 to 3 cents lower.

Motor Products lost all but a bit, though it had a 7 1/2 point gain of yesterday. Allied Chemical and Colgate-Carmichael dropped about 5 cents. U. S. Freight 3%, and Unit-Albright 2 1/2.

With the announcement of the gasoline price in Eastern and midwestern states, there was a further drop in crude oil production last week, which is held to selling pressure.

Standard Oil of California, Houston and Seaboard dropped to 2 1/2 points and Pan American, Atlantic Refining, and several others lost a point or more.

Balloo, which recently ran up to new high on a tremendous vol-

DANIELS DEFENDS HIS EDITORIAL AGAINST RASKOB

Former Navy Secretary Tells Lobby Committee Facts in Newspaper Statement Were True.

WALSH AVERTS A FIST FIGHT

Senator Black of Alabama Calls Editor From Home State a 'Coward'—'Liar,' Letter Replies.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Joseph Daniels of Raleigh, N. C., Secretary of the Navy under President Wilson, was prevented by Senator Walsh (Dem., Mont.), from directly repeating before the Senate Lobby Investigating Committee today his declaration that Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic National Committee should resign because of his contributions to the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

Under the questioning of Senator Robinson of Indiana, the regular Republican member of the committee, he was allowed to testify, however, that he wrote the recent editorial demanding Raskob's resignation, and that the facts in the editorial were true.

Daniels is supporting the candidacy of Senator Simmons of North Carolina, who is facing a stiff fight for renomination in the approaching Democratic primary. On the Senate floor yesterday, Simmons also insisted that Raskob resign.

Hearing Thrown Into Uproar.

The committee hearing was thrown into an uproar when J. E. Pierce, editor of "The Indianapolis Star," and vice president of the Tennessee River Improvement Association, called Senator Black (Dem., Alabama), a "contemptible liar," and Black retaliated by characterizing the editor as "the worst coward in Alabama."

A fist fight was averted by Walsh, who demanded that the "disgraceful proceeding" be immediately stopped.

Raskob testified before the committee Friday that he had contributed about $6,000 to the anti-prohibition association over a period of five years. He said he was committed to contribute a total of $30,000 this year. Robinson said that he had called Raskob before the committee because of an editorial in Daniels' Raleigh News and Observer under the caption, "Should Pay His Debt and Resign," attacking Raskob.

Before questioning Daniels today, Walsh read an editorial, which was published last month after officials of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment had testified before the House Judiciary Committee that $48,000 had been spent to obtain modification and ultimate repeal of prohibition laws.

Says Wets Withdraw Records. Robinson told the committee that the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment with headquarters in New York has refused to turn over its records to the committee.

Robinson said John Holland, committee investigator had been sent to New York to obtain the records, but permission had been refused by the association.

Robinson added that Holland was returning to Washington and a decision would be reached as to what procedure to follow. He said the committee had power to subpoena the records.

The Indiana Senator said Pierre du Pont of Wilmington, Del., would be called a witness by the committee. Du Pont is chairman of the Executive Committee of the association.

One obvious reason for the brief testimony was the undisguised intent of Senator Walsh to object to Robinson's political questions. Senators Blaine, Borah and Caraway, other members of the committee, were not present.

"Does this editorial express your views?" Robinson asked Daniels. "One moment," interrupted Walsh. "It's 'objection'."

"Isn't this committee going to permit this distinguished Democrat who has been a National Committeeman for 20 years, and a member of President Wilson's Cabinet for eight years, to express his opinion?" Robinson demanded.

"Not if I can help it," Walsh snapped. "I have no objections, however, if you want to ask the witness questions of fact."

Robinson withdrew the question, and recited it. "Are the facts expressed in the editorial true to the best of your knowledge and belief?" he asked.

Women Applaud Reply.

"They are," Daniels replied emphatically. This was greeted by applause from many of the women who were crowded into the committee room.

"I must remind the audience of the rules of the Senate which forbid expressions of approval or disapproval," said Walsh.

The audience is here as guests of the committee."

"I thought this was a show," Raskob sneered. At least, some Senator said last week it was a

SAMUEL LAMBERT FUNERAL SERVICES 2 P.M. TOMORROW

Body Being Returned From South Bend, Ind., Where Plane Lost Motor and Fell 1500 Feet

Samuel Breckinridge Lambert, who commuted by airplane from his home in Clayton to Moline, Ill., where he directed the Lambert Aircraft Engine Co., was killed yesterday afternoon when the propeller of his monoplane broke, causing the plane to crash from an altitude of 1500 feet near South Bend, Ind. He formerly was president of the Lambert-Graves Motor Co., 4035 Linden boulevard.

Lambert left Moline alone shortly before noon and carried with him in the plane a motor which he expected to exhibit at the American Aircraft Show now in progress at Detroit, Mich. When within a mile of the South Bend Municipal Airport one blade of the plane's propeller broke off, according to witnesses.

The vibration caused the engine to be wrenches from the plane, which went into a spin and crashed in a field near several workmen, who reported the circumstances of the accident to the South Bend Airport. Lambert's head was crushed by the engine he had placed beside him in the ship, causing death.

Probably Weakened.

Associates of Lambert and Moline attributed the accident to excessive strain placed on the propeller in previous tests of the light aircraft engine used in the plane.

NEW YORK, April 8.—Maj. Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, today denied that he had refused to turn records of the association over to the Senate-Lobby Committee, as charged by Senator Arthur R. Robinson of Indiana, in Washington.

"Senator [Raskob] is wrong again," Maj. Curran said. "We have not refused to turn our records over to the Senate-Lobby Committee. The committee may examine any and all of our records, and we will do this at the insistence of the investigator, repeating it over and over again in a conversation lasting four hours."

"The committee already has accurate records of all our finances. We file regularly with the clerk of the House of Representatives, in accordance with the Federal corrupt practices act, a full record of all contributions made to us and expressly made by us."

"So far as I know, we are the only organization of this character to do so. We have always done so and shall continue to do so in order that our affairs may be free from any suspicion whatsoever."

"These reports are published documents to the public and they have been already called for and inspected by the Senate-Lobby Committee."

"Furthermore, I gave the investigator a bundle of additional papers showing just what we do and explained all to him orally at great length. In addition I have made it clear that I shall be glad to appear before the committee on investigation and answer freely and frankly whatever question they may wish to ask relating to our association."

"That was for traveling expenses," Curran said, adding that he had been designated as one of the vice presidents of the association in 1928 by Worthington.

At this point, Senator Black, a speaker in the hearing, told Curran that he was a "coward" and Curran retorted that Black was a "contemptible cur."

Black had been questioning Curran about a check sent him by Worthington. Asserting that Black was reflecting on him, Curran declared his insinuations were a "contemptible lie."

Invites Witness "Outside."

"I'll see you outside about that," Black retorted. "Everybody knows you are by nature a coward."

Leaping to his feet, Curran shouted: "We'll go outside right now."

Black replied that the matter could wait for settlement. "Then you admit you are a contemptible cur," Curran demanded. "No," Black shot back. "I admit you are."

Curran then pounded for another outburst, but the outbreak was quickly renewed.

"I rise to the point of personal privilege," Curran shouted, leaping to his feet. "This man Black," he asserted, "said I was known as a coward. I call him a contemptible cur in return."

Walsh finally quieted the tumult and a few minutes later the committee adjourned until tomorrow.

In his excitement, Curran addressed Walsh as "Chairman Caraway." Realizing his mistake, he recited the name of the important audience. "I did mean to call you Caraway. I apologize for that and I'll apologize to Senator Caraway when I see him."

Pierce testified that he had made several trips to Washington to do what he could to insure adequate legislation for Muscle Shoals. He said he had advocated the proposals of Henry Ford and the American Cyanamid Co. to lease Muscle Shoals from the Government.

Longworth Granted a Vacation.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—For the first time since Herbert Hoover became President, Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., son of the former president, has been absent from the White House for a stay of several days.

Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., an engineer at Stanford University, was ill at the time his brother was inaugurated. They spent much time together two years ago on the two occasions when Mr. Hoover visited California during the presidential campaign.

Tonight Herbert Hoover will receive a special medal from the Engineering Society in recognition of his "humanitarian" engineering.

Pierce testified that he had made a three-day rest from his duties. On rare occasions in the past Longworth has been away from the House for a day while it was working, but this is the first time that he has absented himself for a longer period. He explained that he desired to leave Thursday for a three-day rest at Alton, Ill.

The Senate recently passed the Norris bill, providing for Government operation of the plant.

partment had "soft-pedaled" the report.

The financial magnitude of the operations, and the concern existing in some quarters over the threatening aspects of the situation, were strikingly indicated in a letter written to Senator Grundy (Rep., Pennsylvania) by a banker of his State, a copy of which has come into the hands of Senator Nyre, insurgent Republican and North Dakota. The letter stated that about $150,000,000 in bonds had been issued on the basis of leases granted by the Postoffice Department. The writer appealed to Grundy to use his influence to prevent any action that might impair the value of the bonds, many of which, he said, were owned in individual state and schools.

The banks claim exemption under the law, from taxation on stock held by them in other corporations.

Some of the banks, the Board of Equalization now holds, have formed inside companies which have taken over the banks' holdings of Government securities.

Whether Grundy is aware that

Nyre has a copy of the letter, or what position Grundy takes in the matter, has not been learned. Since publication of the fact that he had installed his private tariff in the Senate office building, Senator Grundy had severed all relations with Washington correspondents, excepting a few in Pennsylvania.

How Blaine Got File.

The unusual circumstances under which Blaine obtained possession of the Postoffice Department's file of correspondence regarding the St. Paul lease, were learned last night by the Post-Dispatch correspondent. The efforts made by department officials to recover the correspondence and to remove it from the Postoffice building, and that said committee is hereby empowered and instructed to inquire into all the foregoing subjects and any matter pertinent and relevant thereto, and that said committee report to the Senate on the opening of the Senate on the first Monday in December, all information by it obtained, together with its recommendations respecting modification of the laws relating to the subject above set forth."

The resolution would give the proposed committee full power to subpoena, witness, and documents, and would authorize the appropriate method in escrowing the department's attitude.

In instituting condemnation proceedings against the St. Paul property, the Department of Justice obtained the official correspondence from the office of the Postmaster-General. Learning of this Representative Mass went to the Justice Department and asked if he might borrow it. The request was granted.

A few days later the postal authorities learned that Mass had cancellations on all of the leases which he had obtained, prompting him to return the file to the Postmaster-General.

Apparently inspired by the aeronautical feats of his cousin, Maj. Albert Bond Lambert, dean of St. Louis aviators, Sam Lambert experimented with model aircraft from the time he was a student at the Missouri Training School. It was not until a year ago, however, that he started his career as a pilot. While having taught himself to fly at Lambert-St. Louis Field, he withdrew from the automobile business and organized the aircraft engine company bearing his name.

Known as Daring Pilot.

Lambert's confidence in the light of the type he was flying yesterday led him to return to the field and to perform many daring stunts in the air. His usual method of announcing his arrival over an airport was to put the small ship into a screaming dive from an altitude of three or four thousand feet, causing employees at the field to rush from hangars. He used the plane for trips over the country in all sorts of weather, forced landings being a common experience for him.

On seven or eight occasions

he was flying over the city and had to make emergency landings in fields.

He had not completed his examination of all the letters and documents but was deeply impressed with the seeming significance of those which he had studied.

In this dilemma he sought advice from a friendly Senator to whom he showed the file.

The Senator explained the situation to Senator Blaine, who, by arrangement, impounded the entire file for the lobby investigating committee.

Efforts by postal officials to recover the papers thereupon ended, because department officials knew better than to match their authority against that of a Senate committee.

SE CENSURES U. S. JUDGE
BUT OPPOSES IMPEACHMENT

Mosowitz's Conduct in New York Unethical and Dangerous—Record Vote.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The report of the House Judiciary Committee censuring Federal Judge M. Mosowitz of New York in his conduct in office but recommending against impeachment proceedings was adopted today by the House without a record vote.

The report declared that Judge Mosowitz's conduct was "deserving of condemnation" and added it was "unethical and dangerous," but recommended that no other action be taken because insufficient evidence was found to warrant invoking the high power of impeachment.

Two members of the committee, Representative Summers (Dem., Texas), and Representative L. H. La Guardia (Rep., New York), were permitted to file additional views which they said, "We hereby agree with the expressions of condemnation contained in the majority report, but individually we hold the view that the evidence would justify a resolution of impeachment."

NEW YORK, April 8.—The report adopted today by the House Judiciary Committee censuring the conduct of Federal Judge Groves, Mosowitz grew out of an investigation of bankruptcy cases in the Eastern New York Federal court district. Charges were made a year ago by newspapers that Mosowitz favored his former law associates in appointing receivers in lucrative bankruptcy cases.

Declares Former Actress Threatened to Shoot Him Once Gave Her $500 To Go Straight."

NEW YORK, April 8.—Nathan L. Amster, financier, testifying in General Sessions, portrayed himself as an altruist who had established a $100,000 trust fund for another son, son to have the mother of the child, Olga Eide Edwards. Former actress, demand double the amount and threaten to shoot him if he didn't get it. Miss Edwards, pictured as a strong-minded young woman who told him she wanted a child of her own, "just like Isadora Duncan, who's a great dame I am, with nobody interested in me but myself"—and did have the support of another man, without marriage.

Amster said, under cross-examination today, that Miss Edwards, before Lee was born, refused to tell him who the father was.

He warned her to remain silent and fled.

With the union, made last July and calling for a $13.20 a day wage scale and $2.80 a day for insurance. "I did not see how I could pay that insurance on an extra job on which the $2.80 had not been figured." Dillon said. "I went to see Jones about it and he told me, 'You will be taken care of.' He did not say there would be a refund on those jobs, but that is what I understood." Other witnesses have testified that no refund was made.

Dillon testified he never heard threats that contractors who refused to pay the insurance would have their employees taken away.

"It was generally understood by the contractors that their shops would be 'pulled' if they did not sign up," Dillon added.

Dillon estimated that the 42 contractors now members of the Electrical Employers' Association handled from 85 to 90 per cent of the new electrical installation in St. Louis.

Barred From Hearing.

Charles H. Chapline, an electrical contractor, and Orville E. Jennings, international union representative, who were named in the Attorney-General's complaint, were barred from the hearing by Special Examiner Broadus, who denied a formal request by attorneys for the four corporations that Chapline and Jennings be admitted.

He declared that she threatened "to shoot him" and accused him of not supporting his own wife. She made a scene in his office, shrieking, "Here I am for the hundred thousand," he calling him names and threatening to shoot him. He finally set a trust fund of $100,000 for the boy after his banker, E. M. Hammond, had suggested, "You can go ahead and money faster when you get your chest." ## LIEUT. WILLIAMS CHARGES AVIATION DEFICIENCY IN NAVY

Officer Tells Senate Group
It Took Two Months to Get Permission to Revamp Speed Plane.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Lieut. Alford J. Williams, the recently-resigned navy racing pilot, today told a Senate committee a story of trials and triumphs through 13 years of struggling to conquer what he said was "the one thing in aviation" by which he was "tremendously" attracted—unlimited speed in the air.

The pilot appeared before a Senate naval subcommittee, which is investigating not only Williams' resigning from the Navy, but also the position of the United States as compared with other nations in regard to the development of fast pursuit and bombing planes.

Williams told the committee his interest in high speed was "something of an obsession." The pilot then described his struggle to sell the idea of privately subsidized planes to represent the United States in international competition, in which, he said, no government agency was participating against other nations, which were represented by government-sponsored entries.

Slowness in Naval Affairs.
He asserted it took him two months to get permission from the Navy to "make" an alternative Mercury racing plane last fall, after repeated attempts had failed to raise the plane from the water in tests for the Schneider Cup races.

He said the Navy refused to give him a tag to take the plane back to Philadelphia, so he borrowed a tag from the city of Baltimore through a friend.

When the four months' extension of his leave from sea duty expired, he said, and the work of revamping the Mercury had not been completed, he was ordered to sea duty. He then resigned.

The Senate resolution said this assignment "has had the effect of causing his resignation and bringing his valuable experience to an end, and that the United States is known to be deficient in the very type of plane" with which Williams had been experimenting.

Why He Resigned.
Williams then told the committee that he had submitted his resignation rather than carry out orders to go to sea, because he felt obligated to carry out incomplete experiments, "in the navy or out."

He said he had raised $30,000 through private donations to work on the Mercury speed racer for entry in the Schneider cup races.

"It would have taken, perhaps, a year," Williams said, "to complete experiments with the racer after it failed to take the air in tests for last fall's races."

After being allowed four months more for work on the racer, Williams testified, he was faced with orders to drop his experiments.

After listening to Williams' recital for two hours, the investigating committee excused him until tomorrow, when it will hear further testimony on conditions surrounding his resignation from the navy.

U. S. FILES BRIEF HOLDING LIQUOR BUYER IS LIABLE

Mitchell Asks in Supreme Court Trial of Indictment Dismissed as Boothill

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—In its effort to decide whether the liquor buyer is equally guilty with the bootlegger, the Government, through Attorney-General Mitchell, has filed in the Supreme Court a brief to be used when the case of James E. Farrar of Boston, Mass., is reached for oral argument.

The Federal Court for Massachusetts has held the purchase of liquor from a bootlegger was not "prohibited by the Volstead act" and dismissed the indictment against Farrar.

Mitchell declared in the brief that the failure of Congress to specify that purchases from a bootlegger should be an offense, should not be construed by the courts as meaning that Congress did not intend to make such purchases an offense.

Taking the position that any purchase of liquor for any purpose not authorized by the Volstead act is an offense, Attorney-General Mitchell quoted from the law that "one shall . . . purchase . . . any liquor without first obtaining a permit from the commissioner to do so."

MRS. MANNING WEDS AGAIN.
Former Mrs. Dodge Bride of Multimillionaire Son.

By the Associated Press.

TOLEDO, Ohio, April 8.—Mrs. Lois Manning, former wife of Horace E. Dodge Jr., Detroit, and J. Alan Smith, son of a multimillionaire and connected with the sales organization of the Curtiss-Wright Flying Service, were married here this afternoon. Albert Weber, Justice of the Peace, performed the ceremony.

In obtaining the marriage license she gave her age as 20. The bridegroom, whose age is the same, lives in New York. The bride's second husband was Lieut. Benjamin Manning.

Texas Avenue.

The wall-tapping swindler obtained a purse and $28 from Mrs.
Mary Hopkins, 1608A Texas Avenue, yesterday afternoon.

Representing himself to be an agent of the landlord sent to make repairs, the swindler asked Mrs.
Hopkins to go into the bathroom and tap on the wall while he listened from the bedroom to determine whether the wall was sound. While the tenant tapped the visitor stole her purse and money, as she discovered after he had departed.

Similar swindlers have been reported throughout the city.

Gangsters Forced Dr. Bass To Identify Pearman's Body

nothing about any gangster's son that his only business dealings with the dentist had been in connection with a poolroom here, Dr. Bass having endorsed his note for $15, so he could buy a share in the business which he later sold at a profit.

Hired to Guard Home.
Previously Barron had admitted that Dr. Bass had used his Mc-Pherson avenue address for mail addressed to "William Folia." The fake insurance beneficiary, as far as he had forwarded to Dr. Bass all communications addressed to
"William Folia."

John Goslin, a tanner of Columbia, told a Post-Dispatch reporter he was hired by Dr. Bass to guard his home at night for about a week prior to May 3, last.
"He told me he had been threatened," Goslin said. "He didn't say much about it, but I understood it was over land deal. Nothing happened while I was watching his place. I think he thought he was safer at home and abroad than here."

Robert E. Gollacher, a cement worker, succeeded Goslin. He worked 15 nights and was dismissed, and on June 25, Dr. Bass hired him again and he worked 11 nights.

Hired Before Body Was Found.
"He asked me to guard for him again, just a few nights before Pearman's body was found," Gollacher declared. "He let on like he feared some violence for himself.
He said, 'I'm going to Kansas City and I want you to watch my place while I'm gone.'

"Well, I just had a bunch that as far as he was concerned I was watching the wrong side of the road, and I told him I didn't want the job."

"Another thing that made me suspicous was that the first time he hired me he told the officer about himself, but the second time he told me not to tell them I was guarding his place. However, I told the Sheriff. I was afraid some of his men might shoot me if somebody threw a bomb into the place and I kindled up a fire under them with that automatic shotgun the doctor gave me to guard with."

"Dr. Bass told me he'd been threatened and I asked him by whom and he said he didn't know the parties."

Gollacher said Dr. Bass went armed continually during the past year. He carried, Gollacher said, a .38-caliber automatic pistol with a bright yellow wooden handle. The pistol, Gollacher said, was made of burdock wood. Gollacher received $4 a night for guarding the Bass home and Goslin, $5 a night, the men said.

Suit to Cancel Policies.
The insurance policies were written from Dr. Bass by the Boone County Trust Co. by his attorney, Boyle G. Clark, who said they would be returned to the Lincoln National company.

The insurance company, in its suit to cancel the policies, alleged that Dr. Bass and Pearman made false statements to the effect that Pearman had entered into a large land deal with Dr. Bass and that the policies on his life, under the name of Folia, were taken out as security for Dr. Bass on notes he too in the deal.

The petition alleged that the company had found it was contented by Dr. Bass and others with him either to kill Pearman, as was done, or to substitute a body that would be identified as Folia. Dr.
Bass holds an assignment on the policies which he has said he took as collateral in a land deal with a man he knew as Folia.

The policies were of the Lincoln National's "Emancipator" type, payable in 25 years, with an annual premium of $775.50 each. Each of the policies bore the label of the issuing agent, Donald L. Shaw, "life insurance counselor and specialist in trust estates." Oscar Leslie Building, Kansas City.

The copy of the application gave Folia's temporary address as the Michigan Hotel, Kansas City, and his former address as care of W.
F. Barron, 4228 McPherson Avenue,
St. Louis.

"Big Man From the Orient."
Barron told the reporter that Dr. Bass telephoned him by long distance the day before last Christmas and asked him if another friend, "A big man from the Orient," could use his St. Louis address in order to establish a residence. Barron said he declined, but subsequently received advertising mail addressed to Folia and a telegram from Insurance Agent Shaw inviting Folia to join him.

In the application, Folia stated that he was born Sept. 25, 1892, in Montgomery County, near Martinsburg, Mo., and was 27 years old.
Occupation was given as "real estate and land colonization;" employer, "self;" details of occupation, "purchase and subdivision and development of real estate;"
length of time engaged in occupation, "for five years at intervals and six months exclusively."

Previous occupations during the past five years were stated as "same as above; soap broker in Oriental."

Asked about other insurance, the applicant answered, "None at present; none for 10 years, surrendered at time of residence in Japan." The beneficiary of the insurance was specified as "My estate," and under special requests the stipulation was made that four policies of $10,000 each be issued. The form showed that a premium of $350 was paid with the application.

The report on the medical examination of the applicant, embodied in the photostatic print, showed Folia to be in good health. He did not indulge in intoxicating liquors

NEW AMERICAN OPERA IN THE METROPOLITAN

H. H. Hanson Writes the Music, Former Post-Dispatch Critic the Libretto.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, April 8.—A new American opera, native in the locale of the story as well as the music, has been accepted for production by the Metropolitan Opera House during the season 1931-32. General Manager Gatti-Casazza announced yesterday.

The music is the work of Dr. Howard H. Hanson, director of the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, and the libretto was written by Richard L. Stokes, music critic of the Evening World and former music and drama critic of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The opera is called "Merry Mount," and deals with a small settlement founded in Quincy, Mass., in 1628, where a group of gay and irreverent spirits indulged in May pole dancing and other more brazen forms of pleasure to the extreme horror of Boston.

Hanson, who is 32, won the Prix de Rome in music in 1922. His compositions include "Nordic Symphony," "Pan and the Priest," and "Lament for Beowulf," all frequently performed by major symphonic and choral organizations in this country. His latest work, "Romantic Symphony," was commissioned by Serge Koussevitsky for next season's semicentennial celebration of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and has not yet been performed.

A Couvainist Colonist.

The story of "Merry Mount" to which Stokes has gone for the inspiration of his libretto, revolves chiefly around the convivial character of Thomas Morton, who, instead of going to Virginia with his partner in a small colonizing enterprise, decided to remain at Quincy, made his servants his partners instead of shipping them to Virginia, proceeded to build up a robust community where trading in beaver skins with the Indians and consuming great quantities of strong liquor were two of the chief pastimes.

"They also set up a Maypole," wrote one of the scandalized historians of the period, "drinking and dancing about it many days together, inviting the Indian women, for their coorts, dancing and frolicking together like so many fairies or furies," and revived the bad practices of the mad Bacchanalians."

Morton made the tactical error of selling firearms to the Indians, however, greatly jeopardizing the lives of other settlers in the Massachusetts colony. For this he was taken into custody and sent back to England. He returned again to his Merry Mount, but once again was arrested, this time on the technical charge of theft of a canoe from the Indians, was deported, his entire property in Quincy was confiscated and his house was burned to the ground.

Three Scenes.
"Merry Mount" will be the fifteenth American opera sponsored for production at the Metropolitan. The last one produced, "The King's Henchman," the music by Deems Taylor to a libretto by Edna St. Vincent Mallay, had its world premiere here Feb. 17, 1927. None has won a permanent place in the Metropolitan repertoire.

A second opera by Taylor, with a different and the same title, "Peter Ibbetson," is in preparation, and it is generally understood Taylor's contract with the opera company calls for its completion in time for production next season.

THREE MORMON LEADERS

TO BE TRIED FOR HERESY
They Have Ignored Edicts of Silence and Are Preaching Doctrine of Re baptism.
By the Associated Press.

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., April 8.—The general conference of the Church of Christ of the Latter Day Saints, a branch of Mormonism, at its centennial conference, yesterday took action against three members. They were Ottie Fetting, Port Huron, Mich., a member of the Quorum of Twelve; W. H. Dexter, Independence, former general secretary, and Thomas E. Neren, of Denver, former member of the Temple Plans Committee, who were placed under an official silence by the general conference last October. They were cited by the general conference to appear for trial on charges of heresy and insubordination before a special court to be created by the conference.

The difficulties started last year, when Fetting preached the doctrine of re baptism as necessary for those persons coming into the church from other Mormon sects and practicing the rite. Neren and Dexter, it is charged, supported Fetting.

It is alleged they have disregarded the action of the conference in silencing them. They still were regarded as members of the church and are attending the meetings here.

Volunteer Firemen Killed.
By the Associated Press.
FALLS CITY, Neb., April 8.—Fire which threatened the Richardson County Court here yesterday took the life of a fireman and caused losses estimated at $250,000, as it swept through an entire block of business buildings on the principal street. H. R. Kempkin, 48 years old, a member of the local volunteer Fire Department, was the victim of the fire.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

Ottendad charges that, through the action of Ferstel and Brinkman as directors of the cemetery company, certificates of the Lincoln Savings and Loan Association were issued in payment for cemetery lots, and that the cemetery company then paid the certificates back to the Lincoln Savings and Loan Co. in exchange for farm land having no market value.

Ottendad alleges that Brinkman, Ferstel and Louis Ottendad prevented him from exercising his rights as vice president and director of the company, and he demands an accounting. Impounding of the books and a restraining order to prevent further transactions.

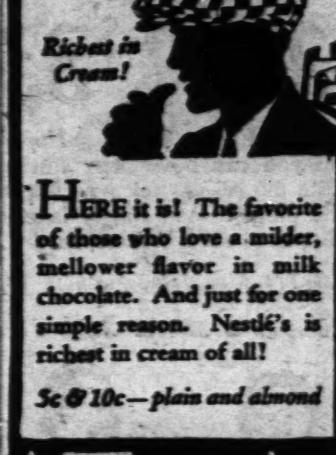

Ottendad's lawyer, E. McD. Stevens, said the cemetery was established on the location of an old cemetery of 20 acres, to which 65 acres were added by purchase.

TROLLEY REVENUE UP BUT RIDERS ARE FEWER

Even Bus Strike Fails to Bring Patronage Up to That of Last Year.

In the week of March 24 to 30, inclusive, when the People's Motorbus Co. was not operating because of a strike, the Public Service Co.'s street cars and buses carried fewer passengers but collected more revenue than in the corresponding week a year ago.

The higher rate of fare, first put into effect last August, 26, and again revised upward on Dec. 30, was responsible for the increase in receipts. The figures are given in the report filed with the Public Service Commission:

The number of fares collected in the week was 4,665,910; preceding week, 4,816,722; year ago, 5,002,771. Revenue was $401,884; preceding week, $414,812; year ago, $393,182.

The decline in number of fares compared with a year ago was 326,691, or 6.72 per cent, and the gain in revenue was $8,411, or 2.07 per cent.

Sale of weekly communion tickets at $1 for 12 rides netted the company $152,159 exclusive of refunds of $548. The number of 5-cent adult fares was 568,687, used by riders who had first used 12 ticket rides. Ten-cent fares made up about 45 per cent of the total.

DODDITTE TO GO TO EUROPE

TO STUDY AIRLINE OPERATION

Former Army Flyer to Sail With Party Tomorrow Night for Italy.

Lieut. James H. Doolittle, former army pilot now in charge of the aviation department of the Shell Petroleum Co., with headquarters at St. Louis, will sail from New York tomorrow night for Italy on an aerial survey and inspection tour through European countries.

Doolittle will be accompanied by Capt. J. W. Cannon and Lieut. James Parker of the Army Air Service, and Jack Allard and C. W. Webster, civilian pilots. Several American-made planes have been shipped to Athens, Greece, for the tour. From Athens the party will follow air-lines and visit airports in Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Germany, Norway, Sweden, Switzerland, Rumania, France, England, and Belgium. The purpose of the trip, which will require about four months, is to obtain extensive data on European air-line operation.

Doolittle recently moved to St. Louis with his family from New York after resigning his commission in the air service.

LOW MORTALITY OF MORMONS

Bishop Attributes It to Abstinence from Liquor, Coffee, Tea, Tobacco. By the Associated Press.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, April 8.—Abstinence of members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints from intoxicating liquor, tea, coffee and tobacco is credited by Sylvester Q. Cannon, presiding Bishop, with lowering the death rate of the denomination.

Addressing the 100th annual conference of the church here yesterday, Bishop Cannon said the church's death rate is 7.5 per 1000. The death rate of the country as a whole was given as 11.4. The ratio of divorce in Utah, Bishop Cannon said, is a third less than that of the entire United States, while the marriage rate is a third greater.

TO VOTE ON REMOVING MOON AUTO CO. HEADS

Eastern interests Add Eight Directors and Call Meeting for Saturday.

The fight for control of the Moon Motor Car Co., pioneer in the automotive industry, today resulted in the calling by Eastern interests of a special directors' meeting for 11 a. m. Saturday to vote on the question of removing the present officers.

Against the opposition of the officers and old directors, the new interests held a special stockholders' meeting yesterday and, after much wrangling, a vote was recorded increasing the number of directors from seven to 15, the Easterners obtaining the additional eight and with it apparent control of the company.

The directions added to the board by W. J. Muller and F. E. Welch, New York, S. Mayner Wallace, A. M. Menz, Samuel H. Liberman, V. L. Kadell, L. J. Partner and A. Farney, St. Louis. The latter six are temporary directors and, with the exception of Farney, are associated in the law offices of Wallace and Tom M. Pierce, local counsel for the Easterners.

Welch and Muller are capitalists connected with New Era Motors, Inc., which recently sold its assets to the Moon Co., including rights to manufacture the Ruxton front-wheel drive automobile.

The Welch-Muller interests obtained stock in the Moon Co., when it recently increased its capitalization 100,000 shares to $50,000 to acquire the Ruxton assets and additional working capital. Attorney Wallace announced his clients, at yesterday's meeting, represented 242,000 shares and, in addition, held proxies from a large number of old Moon stockholders, aggregating many thousands of shares.

President Carl W. Bush and the other officers of the company could not be reached. It is understood they protested again yesterday's meeting as not authorized and will refuse to recognize the new directors or the change in management for which the new directors are expected to vote Saturday.

CALLS CLARITY ABOUT PARITY CHIEF PROBLEM OF NATIONS

Editor of London Observer Addresses American Chamber of Commerce Luncheon.

By the Associated Press
LONDON, April 8.—J. L. Gairin, editor of the Observer, told an American Chamber of Commerce luncheon group today that "clarification about parity" was the outstanding problem of the English-speaking nations today. He said that if he had his way, all the British naval bases throughout the world would be placed at the disposal of the American fleet, in its capacity as joint guardian with Britain of the seas.

Gairin declared that parity between the United States and Great Britain was not enough.

"In case of any future peril to peace, England must remain neutral as long as the United States is neutral," he continued. "Based on no condition must American ships sail on the high seas ever again be interfered with unless there has been some previous joint agreement to that effect."

FINED $300 UNDER DRY LAW ON PROMISE TO MOVE

William Van Loon, 6406 Hayes court, Wellston, whose residence was raided by deputy sheriffs Saturday night—the fourth time in 14 months—pleaded guilty on a charge of obstructing justice yesterday before Circuit Judge Noels of St. Louis County. On his promise to move out of the St. Louis territory he was fined $300, the minimum for the second offense.

Last July he was fined $500 on a sale charge two weeks after a jury had acquitted him of a possession charge. He is the father of five children.

HANGS SELF IN CELL; REVIVED

Soldier Arrested on Wife's Complaint Cut Down in Time.

Charles Williams, 48 years old, a salesman, of 2237 Chouteau avenue, hanged himself last night with a leather belt in a cell at Police Headquarters but was cut down and revived when other prisoners called a turnkey.

Williams had been arrested on the complaint of his wife and booked as suspected of peace disturbance. Police said one belt was removed from his trousers before he was put in the cell but apparently he wore another under his clothing.

DEAD MAN'S VOTE NOT LEGAL

Michigan Man's Ballot on Abortion Elector's Ballot.

LANSING, Mich., April 8.—A resident of Greenfield, Ill. in a hospital, sent for an absent voter's ballot, marked it and had it mailed to the City Clerk. He died before yesterday's city election.

The Clerk of Shiawassee County asked the Attorney-General whether the vote could be counted. Attorney-General Brucker ruled that a man's ballot cannot be counted in an election held after he is dead.

Purpose Is to Clear Debt of Salvation Army Institution Before Easter.

A campaign to raise $10,000 for the Salvation Army's new Women's Home and Hospital at 2745 Marine Avenue may be free of debt when it is dedicated Easter Sunday, April 26, was begun yesterday at a luncheon at Hotel Statler.

The building and equipment cost approximately $230,000, and all but the $13,000 deficit was provided in a previous campaign. Various organizations pledged their support at that meeting and workers were supplied with subscription cards. More than Frank presented.

Wife Dies, but Wife in Prison

JAMES ARTHUR CORDELL, 25 years old, whose 12-month sentence in the Federal penitentiary for transporting a stolen motor car expired April 1, died last night in the prison hospital after undergoing an abdominal operation. Cordeil was received at the prison Jan. 19, 1929, from San Antonio, Tex., at termination of his sentence. Cordeil was too ill to be released, prison authorities said today. His body will be taken to his former home at Webster Groves, Mo.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP RIGHT URGED FOR GREATER ST. LOUIS

Committee in City-County Merger Plan Makes This Recommendation in Concluding Work.

GOVERNING BODY OF ELEVEN PROPOSED

Another Group Favors
Combining Election
Boards and Permanent Registration for Voters.

Two committees of the Council on Metropolitan Government, concluding their deliberations yesterday, made many recommendations concerning public utility and electoral matters in the proposed Greater St. Louis government for St. Louis and St. Louis County.

The committees recommended that all franchise-granting power be concentrated in the central government, reserving certain functions for local municipalities; that the metropolitan government have authority to own and operate all water systems in the area; that the metropolitan charter may provide for consolidation of the city and county Election Boards and various electoral reforms, including a definite recommendation for permanent registration of voters; and that the metropolitan legislative and governing body should consist of 10 members elected by districts (six in the present city and four in the county), with the presiding officer chosen at large.

Besides concentrating the utility franchise power, the Public Utilities Committee urged that Greater St. Louis have broad jurisdiction over transportation of passengers and goods for hire, in so far as local government may have control; that any proceeds of conditions attached to the grant of transportation franchises be distributed among various municipalities in proportion to the utility system's operating mileage; that the police power to regulate bus routes and location of tracks, wires, pipes and other facilities in the streets be left to the municipalities, and that the metropolitan government have the usual municipal powers to own and operate public utilities without endangering the similar powers of municipalities.

The committee also recommended that Greater St. Louis have authority to unify as one system all public and private water systems now existing. Municipal plants, including those of St. Louis, Kirkwood, Webster Groves and Valley Park, could be taken over on the assumption of their outstanding indebtedness, and the privately-owned St. Louis County Water Co., which has just been bought by the Commonwealth Utilities Corporation, could be acquired by agreement at a valuation fixed by the State Public Service Commission.
Greater St. Louis, however, would not sacrifice its right of eminent domain for condemnation of the private system.

Electoral Registration.

The Elections Committee recommended that the proposed enabling constitutional amendment specify that the Greater St. Louis metropolitan government or other may provide for permanent or other registration, conduct of municipal elections, partisan or nonpartisan nominations, preferential voting or proportional representation, and consolidation of the two Elections Boards into one body named by the Governor. It was decided that it would be advantageous to include permanent registration now, but that it might endanger the merger plan to go farther with the proportional representation idea than to leave the way open for its future adoption.

Chairman Remmers of the city Election Board and Secretary Sanders of the county board, members of the committee, approved the board consolidation. Prof. Thomas H. Reed, consultant in the merger movement, said a metropolitan council of no more than 11 members could act as board of directors and would be selected as likely that the presiding officer's election would be controlled by the present city area for a time, so that the city representation would be seven, compared with the county's four,
and the county's population is expected to grow steadily. There would be periodical redistricting.
Besides making laws, the council would have the appointive power and likely it will be proposed that it choose a manager for Greater St. Louis.

France May Cut Proposed Auto Traffic.

PARIS, April 8.—A bill adopted today by the Customs Committee of the Chamber of Deputies will, if passed, make the French duties on American automobiles from 20 to 50 per cent lower than planned in the original bill. The new bill calls for a minimum duty of 45 per cent ad valorem on tourist cars, with a sliding scale of duty on other cars from 22 cents a kilogram to 52 cents, depending on weight.
Taxis under 2500 pounds will be taxed at 25 cents a kilogram; those more than 3500 at 28 to 30 cents.

STOCKMAN SLAIN ON PRAIRIE IN OLD FEUD OVER CATTLE

John Mead Shot Near Newcastle, Wyo.; Neighbor Is Wounded.

By the Associated Press
NEWCASTLE, Wyo., April 8.—
John E. Mead, 59 years old, prominent stockman, was shot and killed and L. C. "Blackie" Wolf was wounded, in an encounter on the prairie 40 miles west of here late yesterday.

The shooting was the result of a long-standing feud dating back to the West cattle and sheep war days, friends said.

Keith Mead, son of the stockman, said he and his father were driving along the road, investigating open gates, when Wolf drove up in an automobile. He added that Wolf opened fire with two revolvers and that the elder Mead jumped from his car, falling dead.

CAULFIELD PRAISES DRY LAW STAND OF BAR

Commends Plea for Repeal,
"Not Cowardly Method of Nullification."

Gov. Caulfield, addressing the St. Louis Bar Association at its annual dinner at Hotel Coronado last night, commended the association for its recent action in adopting a resolution which recommended repeal of the eighteenth amendment. The part of the resolution which the Governor particularly praised was that which spoke of "the cowardly method of nullification."

The Governor advocated obedience to all laws, and said the support of lawyers was counted on. "This is a government of law," he said, "and if there is no place where the law should be revered because it is the law, it is among the members of any organization like this, who are the ministers of justice.

"No one, because of prejudice against any law, or because of the desires of his appetite, should forget the duty of upholding the law. When we commence to nullify the Constitution of the United States, God help America."

Appeals for Redapportionment. Speaking of the recent disorders in the penitentiary, Gov. Caulfield commented, "It is little wonder, for more men are confined there than in any other institution on the face of the globe. The overcrowding is due to major crimes, and not to liquor law violations."

The Governor presented his arguments previously made, for a fair reapportionment of the State's senatorial districts, in accordance with the requirements of the State Constitution, at the next session of the Legislature. He spoke of redistricting as not a question of partisan politics, but one of common honesty.

He termed it "infamous" that voters in one part of the state should have three or four times the representation given them in another section, when the constitution prescribes equality of senatorial districts. He spoke of State Senator McCawley's recent argument against redistricting, on the ground that it would give the cities control of the state government.

The Governor advocated obedience to all laws, and said the support of lawyers was counted on. "This is a government of law," he said, "and if there is no place where the law should be revered because it is the law, it is among the members of any organization like this, who are the ministers of justice.

"No one, because of prejudice against any law, or because of the desires of his appetite, should forget the duty of upholding the law. When we commence to nullify the wish to dispute anything the Governor had said as to respect for law and obedience to law, but that "a law should be respected for what it is, not what it is puffed up to be." He declared that city dwellers are the guardians of liberty, and that dwellers in the open spaces seemed to have less of a sense of freedom.

FINED FOR KILLING BLUE GOOSE

Wyatt Meyer, Clarence, Mo., penalized $50 in Federal Court.

Wyatt Meyer, 50 years old, of Clarence, Mo., pleaded guilty of violating the migratory bird act before Federal Judge Davis today and was fined $50.

"The temptation was too great," Meyer told the Court in explaining why he shot a blue goose on a lake near Clarence, April 1. He said he had been visiting the shop of a gunsmith and picked up a gun on his way out. As he passed along the edge of the lake he saw two blue geese on the water and shot one of them.

Magic Treatment Fades Away Unsightly Freckles

It is surprisingly easy now to remove those many little spots that blemish your skin. No time-taking frills, no long-drawn-out treatments. In only a few days you can banish your freckles and restore the natural dazzling whiteness of your skin.

Simply get a jar of Othine double strength and put a little of the dainty white cream on your freckles at night, before you go to bed. Then look for results in two or three days. Almost before you realize it, your freckles will be gone!

It is always a pleasure skin that freckles number. If you remove those ugly little brown spots, you reveal skin so enchantingly fair, every woman you meet will envy it.

All drug and department stores sell Othine, but be sure to ask for the double strength as it is sold with a positive guarantee of money back if it does not remove even the worst freckles and give a beautiful complexion.

Millions Have This Infection. It Is Spreading Fast. Eliminate Your Feet at Once.

This ailment occurs mostly as toe-aching, scalding, peeling, crackling skin on the toes and between the toes. It is also evidenced as tiny, itchy, watery blisters along the sole, sides, or tops of the toes and fingers which eventually turn into dry, scaly, crusty patches, usually between the toes. Millions have this infection at present, but knowledge of it is Modic's knowledge is recent. It is now known as Trichophytosis or Tinea pedis. The infection is caused by picking up a parasite known as Tinea Trichophyton sometimes called ringworm of the feet. The well or ill, weak or strong, old or young catch this parasite. The main treatment is to bathe the children in TRYCO, a new form of white cream, destroys this parasite and quickly heals this condition. Try TRYCO today. Your money back guarantees. TRYCO is made especially for the treatment and elimination of this infection. TRYCO sells for $1.00 per tube and can be obtained at the Enders Drug Co. and other good dealers.

Business Men Visit Tulsa, Ok.
— See Oil Gusher Brought In.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

TULSA, Ok., April 8.—The St. Louis Good Will delegation of 50 directors of the Chamber of Commerce and members of the Industrial Club arrived here today after spending Monday at Oklahoma City as the guests of business men. The party, which left St. Louis Sunday night, will return tomorrow.

In Oklahoma City they were taken to the newly developed oil field on the outskirts of the city and watched bringing in a new gusher on a site which until a few months ago, was a golf course in Trooper Park. A yellow stream was thrown upward about 100 feet when the valves were opened and the oil gushed forth at the rate of about 16,000 barrels a day.

The common interest of St. Louis and Oklahoma City in the development of the Southwest was stressed by Walter B. Weisenburger, president of the Chamber of Commerce, at a banquet last night at which Oklahoma City men were guests of the Industrial Club. The two cities, he said, had a joint interest in highways, railroads, waterways and airways. In building the cities they had overlooked the interests of the section the wealth and resources of which had made the cities possible, he declared. Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas, he said, constituted an economic unit as one the New England states or the Pacific Coast and the development of the section should be directed by balancing its agricultural and industrial activities its wealth can be conserved and not drained into other sections.

Frank C. Rand, shoe manufacturer, cautioned the Oklahomans that their oil wells eventually would be exhausted and advised that they seek a permanent future in other things the State produces. St. Louis, he said, is eager to contribute to the agricultural development and community growth of the Southwest. Other St. Louis leaders, Thomas M. Dwyer, Mayor of Oklahoma City, welcomed the visiting delegation. Federal Judge Vaught referred to the part St. Louis capital has played in financing the first growth of the Oklahoma capital. St. Louis, he declared, had inspired Oklahoma to its best efforts.

At a luncheon meeting George C. Smith, director of the Industrial Bureau of the Industrial Club, said Oklahoma's progress so far had come from its speculative activities rather than from production. According to the great increase in cattle and mineral wealth the State would not always be able to multiply these sources of wealth and that as its attention is directed more and more toward industry, co-operation with St. Louis would become increasingly desirable.

Edward Overholser, president of the Oklahoma City Chamber of Commerce, told the visitors that the Southwest country looked to St. Louis as its capital and that it felt it was unnecessary to go beyond St. Louis for any accommodation.

DR. MAX MEYER RETURNS TO UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI

COLUMBIA, Mo., April 8.—After a year's suspension for his part in the dredging of the Missouri University sex question, Dr. Max Meyer, head of the psychology department of the university, will return to his duties today.

He will not teach for several days he said, but will attend class sessions to observe the work that has been carried on in his absence by Miss Josephine Smith, who has been in charge of the department.

Dr. Meyer has been doing special work for the St. Louis Institute for the Deaf since his return to the United States last January from Chile, where he taught for one term in the university at Santiago.

Three Liquor Raids by Police.

Detective-Sergeant Ville made three raids yesterday, arresting men in charge of places where he reported finding whisky or beer. Louis Mehrhoff was arrested in a flat above his barbecue stand at 41st and Locust. And three frequenters were released when the bar at 6354 Sycamore avenue, and Frank Reader, found behind the bar at 4480 Delmar boulevard, were held.

New Publisher at Seattle.

Hurt in Shop Fire; Horse Killed.

William Beckham, 64 years old, a laborer, was seriously burned last night when fire destroyed wooden sheds in the rear of 2114½ North Sixteenth street where he lived. A horse, stabled in one of the sheds, was destroyed. The blaze, thought to have been caused by sparks from Beckham's stove, caused $200 damage.

CLUBHOUSE OWNER ON MERAMEC SLAIN

Harry V. Hill Shot at Ten Brook by H. G. Faber
After Quarrel.

Henry V. Hill, 60-year-old fisherman and owner of a clubhouse on the Meramec River at Ten Brook, was shot and killed yesterday by Herbert G. Faber, 41, caretaker of the Ten Brook Hotel, following an altercation in the hotel barroom. At an inquest at De Soto, Faber was ordered held with out bond on a charge of murder. He is in Hillsboro jail.

Faber, according to Coroner Clark, testified that Hill entered the hotel shortly after 2 p.m. and engaged him in a renewal of old disputes. When Hill cursed him and threatened him with a poker, he said, he took a revolver from under the bar and fired two shots. The second shot struck Hill below the heart.

John Schneider, manager of the hotel, said Faber left the room during the quarrel, returned with a revolver and fired twice, saying, "You will call me that, will you?" He said he did not see a poker in Hill's hands.

Faber admitted having taken several drinks, according to the Coroner, and said Hill appeared to be drunk. Faber denied that the trouble resulted from competition between the hotel and Hill's clubhouse.

Hill is survived by his widow and four sons, Elmer, Leo, William and Harry Hill, all of St. Louis. William Hill said his father left the clubhouse to purchase bread at the hotel.

Aviators' Union Proposed.

There is much more than merely temporary relief from corn and bunion pain. A new kind of remedy—an utterly different principle—does two amazing things. You simply touch the corn with No. 1 and the pain is gone quickly. Then the corn can be removed in a few minutes. Next touch the corn bed with No. 2 for a few days to keep it soft. If the corn bed is not kept soft the corn is sure to return. Ordinary methods ease the pain only a few hours. You want to get more than temporary relief.

Logansville (Ky.) Street Car Mortician Talks White Physicians Examine Him.

By the Associated Press.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 8.—William F. Dawson, street car mortician, shot himself four times in the head here yesterday, was momentarily stunned, then unable to move. He walked unassisted. Hospital physicians expressed amazement when preliminary examination showed that one bullet had passed through the top of his head and another apparently had not emerged. Dawson was conscious and responsive while the physicians examined him.

Dawson shot himself in a lunchtime walk. He would give no reason for his act. He has an excellent record with the street railway company here, but did not report for work Saturday. He is expected to recover.

RITCHIE OF MARYLAND TO SEEK FOURTH TERM

In Office Since 1919, Governor Announces That He Will Run Again.

By the Associated Press.
BALTIMORE, Md., April 8.—Gov. Albert C. Ritchie has announced his candidacy for a fourth term as Governor, already having served longer than any other Maryland executive.

Elected first in 1919, Ritchie will have served 11 years when his present term expires. His number of years in office would have been 12 had not one year been cut from his second term due to his election reform law which placed all State offices before the people at one time and made them uniform in tenure. The present term is four years.

During the time he has been chief executive of Maryland, Ritchie has succeeded many reforms in the State Government and his announcement followed the publishing Sunday of a petition urging his candidacy signed by 1500 business and professional leaders of the State, among whom was Dr. William H. Welch of Johns Hopkins University whose eightieth birthday today will be the cause for an international celebration.

DEFUNCT BANK MUST PAY TAXES BEFORE OTHER DEBTS

Missouri Supreme Court So Rules in Case of Charleston People's Depository.

By the Associated Press.
JEFFERSON CITY, April 8.—Citing the state law which provides that a bill for taxes has priority as to a claim against a closed bank, the Missouri Supreme Court, Division No. 2, today upheld judgment of the Mississippi County Circuit Court in favor of Collector William Wyatt of the county for $23,685.15 in taxes from the defunct People's Exchange Bank of Charleston, Mo., May 15, 1927. ## SENATE INCREASE IN MANGANESE DUTY ACCEPTED House Tariff on Pig Iron Restored by Conferences, However—Present $1.12 1-2 Rate Stands.

HIGH SCHEDULE ON POTTERY WINS

Senate Amendment Reducing Import on Plate Glass Indorsed—Various Decreases Are Approved.

The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, April 8.—The congressional conference on the tariff bill today agreed to the Senate increase in the duty on manganese.

The Senate rate is one cent a pound on the metallic content of manganese containing in excess of 30 per cent metallic manganese.

A compromise rate of $1.25 a pound was agreed on for sponge and granular iron. This represents a reduction from the present levy of 30 per cent. The Senate coalition of Democrats and Republicans independents had cut the duty to 75 cents a pound.

Another compromise allows an increase of 3% of a cent a pound on the duty on hollow drill steel, raised at more than 4 cents a pound.

The House conferees rejected the existing rates to be retained on cerium metal and ferrocolumbium and other cerium alloys. These duties are 32 a pound and 25 a pound and 25 per cent on the cerium metal, 30 per cent on the ferrocolumbium and 25 per cent on the other compounds of tungsten, not special purpose iron; 50 cents a pound and 40 per cent; now 60 cents and 50 per cent.

Tungsten metal, 25 per cent or more of carbon, 2% per cent, now 3½ cents; arsenic, containing less than 2% per cent of carbon, and chrome metal, 30 per cent; now 20 per cent.

Tantalum metal, 25 per cent new raw; muck barn, bar iron and cast ingots, valued at not over 4 cents a pound, 3-10ths of a cent a pound, representing slight increases in some cases; boiler and other plate iron or steel, valued at not over 3 cents a pound, 4% cents per cent, slight increases in some cases.

Wire rods, valued at over 4 cents a pound, 4-10ths of a cent a pound, now 10 cents; wire rope, 10 per cent, now the same.

Beaten Iron Restored.
Reducing the third of the 15 rate schedules, embracing metals and metal articles, the conferees eliminated the 75 cents a ton duty on iron placed in the bill by the Senate coalition of Democrats and Republican independents and restored the existing and House rates of 11%.

The House committee, however, deleted in Senate reductions in the metals schedule, as compared with existing levies, were kept in the bill:

Hammer, roll and mill scale, 75 cents a tone, now 10 per cent; tungsten metal, tungsten carbide and mixtures of both, in lumps, cans or powder, 60 cents a pound and 50 per cent on the tungsten, and 50 per cent on the tungsten, now 40 cents and 25 per cent; ferrocolumbium and all other compounds of tungsten, not special purpose iron; 50 cents a pound and 40 per cent; now 60 cents and 50 per cent.

Perchromite containing 2 per cent or more of carbon, 2% per cent, now 3½ cents; arsenic, containing less than 2% per cent of carbon, and chrome metal, 30 per cent; now 20 per cent.

Tantalum metal, 25 per cent new raw; muck barn, bar iron and cast ingots, valued at not over 4 cents a pound, 3-10ths of a cent a pound, representing slight increases in some cases; boiler and other plate iron or steel, valued at not over 3 cents a pound, 4% cents per cent, slight increases in some cases.

Wire rods, valued at over 4 cents a pound, 4-10ths of a cent a pound, now 10 cents; wire rope, 10 per cent, now the same.

Beaten Iron Restored.
Reducing the third of the 15 rate schedules, embracing metals and metal articles, the conferees eliminated the 75 cents a ton duty on iron placed in the bill by the Senate coalition of Democrats and Republican independents and restored the existing and House rates of 11%.

The House group also won an additional levy of 10 cents a dozen pieces on decorated pottery, increasing the rate to cents a dozen and 10 per cent. This, together with a Senate duty of 10 per cent and the present rate of 11%, gives a total of 21%.

The 75-cent levy was the rate in existing law until raised 50 per cent a few years ago by presidential proclamation under the flexible system.

The House group also won an additional levy of 10 cents a dozen pieces on decorated chinaware, the conferees accepting the Senate amendment to limit the increase specifically to chinaware, kitchenware and all other stoneware of chinaware.

While the House bill provided additional duties of 10 cents a dozen pieces on the present rate of 40 and 70 per cent, respectively, on all plain and decorated chinaware, the conferees accepted the Senate amendment to limit the increase specifically to chinaware, kitchenware and all other stoneware of chinaware.

The Senate rates accepted by the conferees were 17 cents a square foot on stoneware over 344 square inches and 19% a square foot on stoneware under 344 square inches.

Cone on Its Apex—Sees Danger in Machine Age, But Hope in Ford Plan.What an educated Oriental thinks about, and in particular, what he thinks about us, was disclosed in an interview yesterday at the Roosevelt Hotel with S.
Kamesam of the Forest Research Institute maintained by the British Government at Dehra Dun.Kamesam's first plunge into "a civilization based on Newtonian mechanics" was a month ago, when he left India for the first time on a Government mission to study methods of wood preservation and use in the United States and Europe. His headquarters in this country are the Forestry Department's laboratory at Madison, Wis., but he expects to work in and about St. Louis until fall.Since man of his comments on which he based his views, he pointed out that he is not a professional philosopher but an engineer whose technical writings preceded him to St. Louis. He holds degrees in the arts and mechanical engineering from the University of Madras, and as a product of venerable tradition plus modern education, is one of a numerous and increasing Indian type. With the keen conviction of first impressions, he was inclined to believe.Hindu vs. American.
The Hindu laborer on 20 cents a day, perhaps one meal a day and only a little sleep, in a "geet" more out of life than the American with two automobiles, 10 rooms and three baths, a country club and a boot-legger who uses real whisky for flavoring.Henry Ford's ideas on industry, reincarnation, production and leisure seem Indian.Occidental life is "the zenith of civilization born of mechanics."
Newton's laws carried to their logical conclusion."

It is a form of delirium.

We build "inagnificent edifices, both literally and metamorphically."We get no good of it, even in little things, "more worry than happiness."More Americans should visit India.More Indians should visit America.Happiness lies neither in Oriental "stagnation" nor in the Occidental "vortex of furries," but is the "punctuation" of life "which connotes rest in the midst of motion; neither the moth that rests all day on the wall nor the moth that flutters forever at the candle, but the butterfly that for a moment alights on the flower."

Deadly Product of the Machine.

The deadliest product of the machine is selfishness. "The root of discord."Selflessness is a practical essential to the happiness of any man and the permanence of any civilization, since only it can "connect together the divergent individuals of social society."And it alone can soothe the frustration of man's arrogance in the midst of factors over which, for the most part he has no control, and so give happiness in the face of personal failure.The rate and direction of Newtonian civilization preage a crash.It is possible, however, that the machine is producing the antidote for its own poisons; that the machine age may save itself by a "humanizing" self-reformation which is outside its conscious aims and possible indications of which include Henry Ford and the five-day week.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in the cardinal principles that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight dangerous of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be doctrinally independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Fitch and Fulton.

I HAVE been asked by Fitch descendants in St. Louis to answer your editorial of March 31. You are not entirely correct as to facts concerning steamboat experiments before Fitch. However, that is immaterial, as the issue between Fitch and Fulton who built steamboats that actually ran and carried passengers. Fitch's steamboat of 1788 was the first in the world which actually ran at a good rate of speed and carried passengers. Fitch's commercial steamboat of 1790 carried passengers and freight on the Delaware almost twice as fast as Fulton's Clermont on the Hudson 17 years later.

The Smithsonian Institution says that Fitch's commercial steamboat of 1788 attained "a speed of over six miles an hour, and Fitch in 1790 built another boat which attained a speed of eight miles an hour and continued to run on the Delaware River, carrying passengers and freight for three or four months."

Contrast this with the performance of Fulton's boat, the Clermont, on the Hudson, 17 years afterward, which occupied 22 hours running time to go a distance of 150 miles—about four and three-quarters miles an hour—and how great is the triumph of the original inventor, Lieut. Fitch!

Had they started together, over the same course, at the same time, Fitch's boat would have reached Albany 52 miles in advance. Fitch had an engine manufactured in America by common blacksmiths, while his own invention at that time when the principles and the relative forces of the different parts of the steam engine were almost unknown. Fulton employed an imported engine, built in England, by Boulton & Watt, on their improved principles. Dr. William Thornton, superintendent of the United States Patent Office, issued a pamphlet in 1814 in which he proved that Fulton was even indebted to Fitch for the proportions of his vessels, having studied Fitch's plans. A committee of the New York Legislature decided in 1817 that the steamboats built by Livingston and Fulton were a infringement patented to John Fitch in 1781, and Fitch during the term of his patent had the exclusive right to use the same in the United States."

Fulton made big money out of the steamboat because he operated on the Hudson, through a rocky, hilly region, where land travel was most difficult and expensive, while fair roads connected Philadelphia and Trenton on the Delaware, thus making Fitch's profits negligible. Should the size of the fortune acquired by the only scale to measure success in America?

ROSCOE CONKLING FITCH,
Secretary-Treasurer Fitch Family Ass'n.

The Debating Championship.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I AGREE with the statement of Fred Maette in the letter which he sent to you that something should be done about the poor decisions which result in the Intercollegiate Debating League.

But I wish to go farther. How about this year's result? Is Roosevelt the real champion or not? Shouldn't it have to give Sodan a chance for the cup? We don't expect the millennium. We do however, progress toward stabilizing employment. That we must have to stabilize prosperity and to preserve social order and stable government. Continued progress in this direction will contribute immeasurably to human happiness. It will rid our civilization of its worst evils.

A Single Tax View of Unemployment.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Y OUR correspondent, Paul Y. Anderson, in an article in Sunday's Post-Dispatch, suggests that Senator Senator Cousens, personally acquainted with great industrial magnates, has been Mayor of Detroit and has spent more or less time trying to solve the unemployment problem, he knows what he is talking about.

No man knows what he is talking about who blames employers for unemployment. They are just as destitute as all should be profitably employed as the employees are.

The cause of unemployment is private property in land. Industry is conducted by the power of capital and labor which are deprived of the full reward of their industry by reason of the fact that before any industry can be carried on, a tribute of $3,000,000,000 annually must be paid to the so-called owners of the earth for permission to use the earth. This amount is for the United States alone.

Suppose Senator Cousens' remedy were applied and employers undertook to guarantee employment to all. Would not land values increase and automatically prevent employers finding the necessary means to establish a reserve fund for the purpose of keeping men employed?

Hannibal Mo. CHARLES A. GREEN.

Union Station Exits.

WHAT a pity that the newly enlarged Union Station has no exit or entrance on Twentieth street. An exit on Twentieth street would have been a very appropriate civic improvement on the city's most useful building. I am writing you these lines because I know that you are interested in proper civic pride.

SENATOR COUSENS ON UNEMPLOYMENT.

Progress is being made toward solution of the problem of stabilizing employment by industry, which the Post-Dispatch has urged as a necessary step for the preservation of the capitalist system, social order, stable government and the advance of civilization.

THE POSTOFFICE CHARGE.

Charges made by Representative Mass of Minnesota, who probably knows more about the problem and has given more thought and work to it than any other American. In his varied experiences as former employer of thousands of wage earners and as Mayor of Detroit, dealing with unemployed destitute, he gained a thorough insight into unemployment conditions and their distressing consequences. As United States Senator he has given special attention to the subject. He was chairman of the Senate Committee on Education and Labor, which made an exhaustive investigation of the causes of and the remedies for unemployment. It was an enlightening inquiry. It revealed that leading economists and heads of big business are giving serious thought to the problem and are seeking a solution as needful for continuous prosperity as well as for the general welfare of society.

In the case of the St. Paul Postoffice lease, Representative Mass already has made a prima facie case of fraud and collusion in connection with the lease itself, and of gross financial misrepresentation and inflation in connection with the bonds issued on account of it. Although commissioners appointed by the Federal Court have valued the property at $317,000, and a Federal grand jury has reported that its maximum value never exceeded $290,000, the Government is paying $120,000 a year in rent, and the property has been bonded to the extent of $1,150,000.

Representative Mass declares that the owner of the St. Paul Postoffice has leased numerous other buildings throughout the country to the Postoffice Department. Approximately $18,000,000 is being paid in total annual rentals by the department, and it has been stated that $150,000,000 in bonds, based on the inflated rentals, but secured only by the physical properties, has been issued.

Needless to say, such a situation affords boundless opportunities for corruption, and the St. Paul grand jury has not hesitated to declare its belief that corruption has occurred. The attitude of the responsible postal authorities has not been of the sort to allay suspicion. The employment of former Government officials to represent the owners in the leasing negotiations, the action of the Postoffice Department in making a cancelable lease noncancelable without any consideration in return, the reluctance of the department to disclose the facts, have all combined to augment an apprehension that was the inevitable consequence of the admitted facts.

The barest suspicion of graft in connection with the postal service is intolerable. That suspicion already exists in substantial form. If it has any basis in fact, the facts must be known in order that those guilty may be punished. If it is unfounded, the owners of the leased buildings and the officials of the Postoffice Department are entitled to a complete and speedy vindication. The Senate has the power to get to the bottom of it. It should not delay a moment.

THE CARNEGIE EXHIBIT.

While no official figures have been issued as yet, it does not require the services of a statistician to discover that St. Louis is taking a renewed interest in art, and particularly in modern art. The foreign section of the Carnegie Institute exhibit, now on display at the City Art Museum, has attracted dense crowds. Last Sunday, as on most previous Sundays, the galleries swarmed with people, most of them armed with catalogues of the show.

The casual visitor to the museum will also note many changes in the permanent collection, changes, most of them, in the interest of excellent showmanship. They are convincing proof of the ability and energy of the museum's new director, Meyer E. Rogers. An expert with years of special training and experience, he has already, in less than a year, placed his imprint on our museum. It is further proof, if proof was needed, of the desirability of securing experts to direct the vastly complex affairs of the modern city.

NEWS REEL OF THE NOBLE EXPERIMENT.

Mrs. Nelle Burger of the W. C. T. U. says Missouri is more than 80 per cent dry, and Digest poll shows State voting 26,192 for dry law, 57,233 against; Henry Ford asserts he will quit business in United States if "house ever comes back," and same auto magnate announces tractors being made by his plant in wet Ireland are better than those made here; 26 out of 31 university presidents declare student drinking is not general, and 1874 Yale students, 71 per cent of total in poll, state that they do drink; Patrick Callahan of Louisville tells House Committee prohibition has saved 120,000 lives, and Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. figures show deaths from alcoholism increased 600 per cent between 1920 and 1930; Charles M. Hay vows he traveled 12,000 miles in Missouri without sighting a speakeasy, and woman magazine writer says Ozarks are full of stumps on which one lays dollar bill, then finds liquor thereon five minutes later; head of Citizens' Committee of 1000 charges wets are the real fanatics, and Miss Foley of Baltimore calls the eighteenth amendment "a more noble experiment even than that which began at Concord and ended at Lexington"; Coach Alou Stagg deposes youth of country is better off, and four Kansas City boys in seventh grade are arrested for bootlegging; New Jersey writer opines lawlessness is greater than that of the nation; Europe has greater moral than state of affairs in France, for example, where even political censorship (which they happen to consider much more important than moral) hardly exists. Of course Senator Snoot holds that the people of the United States are spiritually weaker, though at the same time higher, than any of the stocks from which they sprang; if he were not certain of that, I am sure the situation in uncensored France would comfort him.

As Senator Snoot holds that the people of the United States are spiritually weaker, though at the same time higher, than any of the stocks from which they sprang; if he were not certain of that, I am sure the situation in uncensored France would comfort him.

There every bookstall is garlanded with forbidden books. Numerous magazines whose reputation he knows as well as I do hang from clothes pegs on the strings of their backsides in Paris. France, in the mildest and primest provincial towns—most of them are actually in colors—yet the police do nothing; and as for the jokes in some of them, I hardly believe he would understand them.

As for Germany, it is well known that nation laid down its prejudices with its arms.

The German sun-bathing magazines, for example, of which there are more than there are love science and detective stories in Chicago, make matters worse.

It is agreed that photographs are worse than drawings, which are more dangerous than line.

Advertisers only raids the police over make in Paris are on the slope round the Palais Royal, where they sell pornographic books in English.

Art and literature everywhere else,

as well as in the field of art, are wide open.

Now for the comforting result I promised.

In the first place, these bookstalls, even when they are near a boy's school, are not

THE SHOP THAT WAS HEARD 'ROUND THE WORLD.

What if There Were No Censorship?

Discussion of what would happen if U. S. had no moral censorship might have enlivened Senate debate on forbidden books; in France, for example, wicked magazines are sold openly, no one is corrupted and the vendors do not grow wealthy; best market is among censored peoples; legal taboos stimulate traffic.

William Bolitho in the New York World.

particularly prosperous. Of course, I have no financial statistics to back me. All that I know is that their keepers are just as shabby and worried looking as anywhere else, that I have never seen a queue waiting for the Vie Parisenne or for a copy of "Name" (sold there for 1 cent, paper cover). Perhaps the best proof I have of all that the nation's innocent youth and vials middle age do not gorge themselves madly on the "poisonous fare" is that if you buy a mere evening paper these vendors will often say thank you.

On the whole, then, there is a poor market for pornography among uncensored peoples. Such as it is, it is not curious that the vast majority of it is supported by tourists from the countries where purity is safeguarded strongly? There is, I believe, a rather firm literary censorship in Buenos Aires, for example. Books are written for export, either of which not a single copy is sold in Paris. The postcard vendors of the Place de l'Opera never take the trouble to accept any one but a clear-cut Nordin.

An examination into this ought to be very assuring to the advocates of censorship. If indeed they are really afraid of what horrid things they might be exposed without it. Nor can their enemies, the anti-censorshipists, find much comfort in the facts that they hope that the mere absence of moral regulations makes for any earthly paradise. Thus freedom just seems to have no effect, goes it bad, whatever. There are just as many prudes, just as many prigs, just as many people with an unhealthy fear of body and beauty and nature, in France as anywhere else. The narrow-mindedness of the average French provincial town, or even the suburbs of Paris, would win grudging admiration from any decent Briton.

This slight mark of self-effacement was shown in the first days of the existence of a sufficient number of people who were unashamed in the conjugal history of their country.

As for the rest of the world, it is not surprising that the momentousness of its results.

Cosima dwelt with the volcanic Richard for almost 20 years, enduring not only the oblique visits upon her by her society for her treatment of Von Buelow, but suffering the harsh tongue and the difficult humor of the terrible Titan whom she had elected to companion.

She did little else but serve him. Not only did she bear him children when it was probrious to do so, but she stood between him and the world in order that what might be incredibly enriched. She knew the output of that unexampled brain.

She did as she could help it, nothing did.

It is altogether likely that had it not been for Cosima's sympathetic comprehension, her inflexible will, her utter selflessness, her practical aid, the world would not have known "Die Meistersinger."

"Götterdämmerung," and "Parsifal," and that the theater on the hill would never have been built to stand as a symbol of beauty and aspiration for the solace of the mind of man.

Frau Cosima Wagner

Wife of composer knew how to live with a genius, and how to stand between him and the world, to utter effacement of self; her fine duty to serve him; his works are memorials to both; widow's biography ends at his death.

From the New York Herald Tribune.

It has often been said of Cosima Wagner, dead at Bayreuth in her ninety-third year, that her conduct of the Festivals for a generation after Wagner's death was marked by a tyrannical substitution of her ideas for his; that this capricious autocrat, as she was called, sought to reshape the master's artistic legacy in the mold of her own impulsive will. Yet in the "official" biography of Cosima that was published last year under the aegis of Wahnfried—a monumental tome of more than 1000 pages—the story of her life stops with that shattering February day in 1883 when Richard Wagner died in Venice.

We learn no more in those pages of the extraordinary woman who survived her husband almost half a century, and who, by her tireless efforts, made actual and symbolic during his preposturous dream of an opera house devoted, not to profit or diversion, but to the maintenance of a lofty ideal of the imagination. On that bitter day when she cut off her bright hair and laid it with the dead Richard in his grave, Cosima entered upon a widowhood that was to last for more than 47 years—more years than she had already lived; yet of that long and crowded and eventful period her chosen chronicler tells us not a word.

This slight mark of self-effacement was shown in the first days of the existence of a sufficient number of people who were unashamed in the conjugal history of their country.

The same is true of the rest of the world, it is not surprising that the momentousness of its results.

Cosima dwelt with the volcanic Richard for almost 20 years, enduring not only the oblique visits upon her by her society for her treatment of Von Buelow, but suffering the harsh tongue and the difficult humor of the terrible Titan whom she had elected to companion.

PAIR IN AUTO HELD UP ON ROAD IN COUNTY

Two Men Take $75 and Machine and Use Car in Another Robbery.

Ray Rizman, 7632 Carswell drive, Clayton, an automobile salesman, and a woman companion, were held up on Chambers road near Ferguson by two highwaymen who robbed Rizman of his car and $75, and the woman of $4, at 11:45 o'clock last night.

The robbers shot at the car, promising to park it in St. Louis.

At 9 a.m. the same pair, still using Rizman's car, held up Edward Dalton, 609 Central avenue, Alton, near Black Jack, St. Louis County, robbing him of $30 cash and a $600 diamond stud, and disabling his car.

At the Abel Cigar & Tobacco Co., 3617 Gravois avenue, Henry H. Weindel, the manager, and a clerk and a customer were forced to lie on the floor by a robber who took $300 from a cash box, and escaped through a back door.

Frank Jones, 4001 West Pine boulevard, laid up near his home by two highwaymen, insisted he had only some change which they found in an outside pocket. He was struck down, searched and found to have $85, which also was taken. The robbers hit him again. He was treated at City Hospital for lacerations.

Mrs. Nora Korch, 5455 Delmar boulevard, fought a highwayman near her home, but he escaped with her purse containing $340, subsequently discarding the empty purse. She was treated for nervous shock.

The automobile used by four armed men who held up several men in the Wolf-Wilson drug store at Skinker boulevard and Pershing avenue yesterday morning and escaped with $500 in cash was found abandoned yesterday afternoon in front of 400 North Spring avenue. The discovery was made by Arnold Muegge, a druggist, 6115 Page boulevard, brother of the owner, Hermit Muegge, also a druggist, who said it had been stolen from its parking place at Broadway and Walnut street. Some checks stolen in the holdup were left in the car.

Mr. and Mrs. John Premer, 5441 Herbst street, reported theft of $31 cash and some papers from their home.

A prowler caught in the Herder book store, 17 South Broadway, last night was proved to be a package employee by the company. He had piled up four typewriters and an adding machine which he planned to haul away in his automobile, parked nearby, and to sell in order to pay off a $200 debt on the car. He said he unlocked a window before quitting work yesterday afternoon and re-entered through the window at night.

To Exhaust Every Resource Before Abandoning 5-Power Pact.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 8.—While general opinion is that only a three-power limitation treaty is now possible as a result of the London parley, there is a shred of optimism in the reports of spokesmen, who have indicated that the conference will not be adjourned until every proposal has been exhausted to bring together the divergent viewpoints of Great Britain, France and Italy.

Most of the American delegation, it is said, have given up hope of keeping their reservations on the Leviathan for April 22, and foreseen remaining here at least until early in May. The Italians probably will return to Rome over the Easter week-end.

Some expect the postponed plenary session of the conference will be held the latter part of this week, and will provide Dino Grandi, the Italian opportunity to make his case and assign reasons for their disagreement, and postpone settlement of their differences to some future time.

Until such a settlement is effected, it is thought, any three-power treaty evolved must contain a provisional clause stating that Great Britain may find it necessary to depart from her treaty navy figures if France goes in too heavily for ship construction. Such a contingency would upset the programs under the treaty of the other nations.

Premier Questions in House.

The British Prime Minister, answering a question in the House of Commons today declined to give assurance that he would enter into nothing less than a five-power treaty. "But," he added, "as I have frequently informed the House, the Government is still working to secure a five-power agreement."

There are renewed indications that the MacDonald Government dare not go too far in the matter of committing Great Britain forthright in a military way, or in re-interpreting the covenant of the League of Nations. MacDonald was the center of a storm since in Committee last night by the Conservative Geoffrey Lockhart Lampson, who moved a motion of adjournment of the House.

Adjournment at any time other than the usual rising periods, when moved by the opposition, would be tantamount to censure of the Government and probably would invoke resignation. In this case MacDonald reiterated his former pledge to divulge full information on several contentious matters to a meeting of party leaders.

Both Conservative and Liberal whether there was a real commitment or not, we gave the very important. He declared: "It is very important that we should know what we are being committed to, because these commitments are matters of peace and war. There has been a good deal of discussion as to whether or not we were committed in 1916. If we were we were committed to something which was very vague, but where it was a question of honor,

James Hostess to sign Any Foot Leaving Italy Out.

PARIS, April 8.—Today with Aristide Briand again in London there were clear indications that France would hesitate to sign a treaty at the London naval conference which would leave Italy out.

Nevertheless all hope has not gone abandoned that after the return of Briand to London a solution of the party problem will be found which immediately will make a five-power treaty at least a possibility.

Birkhead Breaks Blood Vessel

BIRKHEAD, France, April 8.—The Earl of Birkhead, who was Secretary of State for India in the Baldwin Government, suffered from a broken blood vessel which physicians said was serious in nature.

Dr. F. A. Carmella of the Federal Public Health Service, who is in charge of the parrot embargo, said today that he could not predict when the exclusion order would be modified or lifted, but he added that the service was trying to arrange matters so that the industry would not be jeopardized by the embargo. He said that several dealers in pets in conferring with him had shown a sincere desire to co-operate with the service, and that no protest against the embargo had been received.

The Public Health Service, aided by customs officials, is keeping a strict check on all incoming vessels carrying parrots as pets or cargo. Whenever possible the birds are sent back to the ports of origin by the vessels bringing them to this country. If such vessels are not scheduled to return soon to tropical countries, the birds are transferred to other ships.

The Treasury Department regulations for enforcing the President's order permit the importation of privately owned parrots that have been kept in sanitary surroundings for 60 days prior to arrival, and have not been in contact with other parrots. Such imported parrots must be taken directly to the home of the accompanying owner.

"Our greatest difficulty at present," Dr. Carmella said, "is with sailors who want to bring in three or four parrots for pin money. Our quarantine officers board all ships coming into American ports and allow them to proceed only after the captains swear that they will not allow parrots to be landed."

Asked how the embargo could be modified, Carmella stated that after the bacteriologists of the service had discovered more about psittacosis, the regulations probably would be amended to permit the importation of parrots through a limited number of ports, such as New York, Baltimore and New Orleans, but each dealer would be required to keep a strict check on all birds sold. Carmella said that he was afraid that the regulations would cause the price of parrots to increase.

The executive order stated that the embargo should be enforced "for such period of time as may be deemed necessary."

The Treasury regulations stated that the embargo would be effective "for the time being, until further notice." The regulations except cockatoos, macaws, parrots or love birds for the present.

The amendment, which now is section 13, article 14, of the Constitution, reads:

"Any public officer or employee of this State, or of any political subdivision thereof who shall be, or shall be made of such office or employment, have the right to name and appoint any person to render service to the State to any political subdivision thereof, and who shall name or appoint to such service any relative within the fourth degree, either by consanguinity or affinity, shall thereby forfeit his or her office or employment."

—keep these handy products handy!

There have been many occasions when you could have saved yourself a lot of trouble by having these four convenience products on hand. A spot on your clothing; a squeaking hinge; a lighter that wouldn't light; or a garment too soiled to be worn.

You are sure to have such experiences . . . and when you do, you'll thank forethought for providing Shell Spot Remover, Shell Handy Oil, Shell Lighter Fluid and Shell Kleanzit.

SHELL KLEANZIT

Dry cleaning becomes quick and easy

Shell Kleanzit has simplified the cleaning of clothing and fabrics. It dries so promptly and free from odor that the cleaned garment can be pressed and used in just a few minutes.

Shell Kleanzit comes ready to use...nothing need be added. Positive and quick in action. Excellent for cleaning fine fabrics and women's light, filmy apparel. Also gloves, men's neckties, hats and many other articles. Gentle to the hands—you can use it without wearing rubber gloves. So pure that jewelers use it in cleaning fine watches.

SHELL LIGHTER FLUID

Lighters act promptly

For starting that new lighter right—or reviving one that has outgrown its "faming youth"—try Shell Lighter Fluid.

Entirely free from the oily, greasy elements which cause charred wicks and gummy deposits. Shell Lighter Fluid is carefully refined to insure a light at the first spark and to burn with a clean, strong flame.

600 PARROTS BARRED

Embargo Enforced to Prevent Spread of Disease—No Protest From Dealers.

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 201-205 Kellogg Bldg.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Approximately 5000 parrots are being excluded from this country every month under President Hoover's executive order of Jan. 24, protracted after a considerable number of psittacosis or "parrot fever" cases had attracted nationwide attention.

Dr. F. A. Official Taft Mourning Ends.
WASHINGTON, April 8.—The American flag that flies over the White House today was raised from half to full staff, signifying that the last official tribute of the nation to the late William Howard Taft was at an end. At the same time the flags at the Capitol and other governmental buildings both here and throughout the country, as well as at distant air ports and American embassies at sea, also were raised again to full staffs.

OLD-STYLE ROMANCE HAS MODERN FINISH

Mrs. Adelaide Lean a Grandmother, Testifies in $250,000 Breach of Promise Suit.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 8.—A romance of Peacock Alley in which the cavalier gentleman was "devoted and charming" with orchids and serpent rings has passed into history with the old Waldorf.

Before an elderly jury who singly affirmed that they were no women haters, Mrs. Adelaide Lean, a comely grandmother, testified in her $250,000 breach of promise suit against Charles F. Harman, retired millionaire now living at the Hotel Savoy-Plaza.

Soft voiced, Mrs. Lean had the features of "Gibson Girl." Her blue eyes were said as the attorney for Harman, Charles Griffith, characterized her as a "moving spirit in the plot" against the trim, mustached, elderly capitalist.

Denial of an Implication.

Mrs. Lean, 70, both sides agreed, introduced Mrs. Lean to Harman in 1922.

The implications that Mrs. Turner introduced Mrs. Lean to the millionaire with the idea of sharing whatever luxury the bride might enjoy through the prospective bridegroom's wealth was made by lawyers for Harman who questioned Mrs. Turner. A deposition, containing their questions and Mrs. Turner's replies, was read. A question was asked and to which there was a spirited denial was:

"Did you ever ask Mrs. Lean what there would be in it for you if you introduced her to Mr. Harman?"

Mrs. Turner in the deposition denied an implication that, during his friendship with her friend, she herself was living in a seven-room suite at the Waldorf-Astoria for which he was paying. "Five years after he met her," Mrs. Turner's deposition read, "Mr. Harman's deposition read, 'Mr. Harman hoped to see me abroad on his honeymoon. I presume he spoke of Adeleide. It pleased me to hear it. I know she was very fond of him, and I also knew that a man so attentive to her for five years could have no other thought in mind but to marry her."

Mrs. Turner denied that she had ever accepted or needed any financial help from Harman.

To Supreme Court Justice Churchill and the day, Mrs. Lean admitted she was 53 years old and a former sister-in-law of Louis Kaufman, president of the Chatam & Phœnix Bank. She and her husband, Charles Kaufman, were divorced in 1904 and she resumed her maiden name.

Wearing on the fourth finger of her left hand a wide ring made of the coils of a serpent, Mrs. Lean said that this piece of jewelry had been taken by Harman from his own hand for an engagement ring. She had been introduced to Harman in Peacock Alley of the Waldorf in 1922.

Hired Room and Nurse.

In February of 1923 when his devotion had reached the point where he hired a room and nurse for her at the Waldorf when she had been ill she said he proposed to her.

"I've been very lonesome since my mother died," she recalled his saying. "I don't have many friends that I like. It seems very sudden, but I love you. If I had met you earlier I would have married you but I will have to wait a while now."

"He then gave me this ring," Mrs. Lean went on. "We used to have dinner several times a week together and go for rides in his car."

Then in 1924, she said, when she went walking in Central Park she saw him with a woman in his car.

In August of 1926 when they were visiting at Long Beach, Mrs. Lean said, "He told me, 'You have been a wonderful companion and friend and I want you to be my wife.' I was very much delighted to hear that because I was very much in love with him."

She postponed a trip to Europe at his suggestion and allowed him to pay for an apartment at the Madison Hotel which she could no longer afford, she said. His marriage to Laura de Giverville, whom he had known for 20 years, came as a shock to Mrs. Lean. He was ill in October of 1927 and she was told by the physicians not to see him. Calling his rooms on Oct. 17 she was turned away by his servant who was married.

So well understood was their engagement, she said, that her grandchildren would call Harman "Grandpa" when she called with her on her daughter, Mrs. Starr Hill, in New Rochelle. The announcement of Harman's marriage caused her breakdown, she testified.

INCREASE IN TUBERCULOSIS

288 More Cases Reported in February Than Year Ago.

An increase of 288 in tuberculosis cases on record with the Municipal Nurses Association during February over the same month a year ago is reported by Mrs. Bell, the C. Venlock supervisor of nurses, to the Tuberculosis and Health Society of St. Louis. The total for February, 1930, was 3718 cases.

The increase does not necessarily mean that the disease is more widespread, the report said, but indicates that doctors are reporting cases earlier, and that greater use of medical clinics has brought to notice more cases. Large increases were registered in the number of home visits by nurses and the visits to clinics.

RIVER DES PERES WORK NEAR UNION TO BE FINISHED TODAY

Remainder of Project in Forest Park to Be Completed in Six Weeks.

Work of diverting the River des Peres from its old channel in Forest Park to its new concrete sewer tube near the Union boulevard entrance to the park is being completed today. There is a dam in the stream to force its flow into an intake pipe of the sewer. For several months a section of the river farther downstream has been diverted into the sewer through a temporary hole at a point about opposite Barnes Hospital. An about six weeks the remainder of River des Peres in the park will be forced into the tube through into near Lindell Drive, a block east of Skinker boulevard. The river bed being abandoned through the park is to be converted into a lagoon, but the Park Division may have to fill it partly with earth, as it is too deep now.

The sewer tubes through the park and for a short distance to the south are completed. The last tube section between the park and the University City line, north of Delmar boulevard, will be finished by the summer of 1931.

the Catastrophe that befell Mrs. Greer's Cake

One of Mrs. Greer's masterpieces—an angel food cake—was basking in the oven's glow, taking on that coat of tan so fashionable these days—especially necessary to cakes of quality.

"Some think it's all in the beating," said Mrs. Greer inwardly as she cautiously lowered the door and peeped in, "but I claim that baking has just as much to do with . . . ."

Just then . . . . the telephone in the front hall rang.

"What can you expect?" she asked irritably when her husband came home a few minutes later. Between them they viewed the ruins of what had once been a promising cake. Tears welled up in her eyes.

"I can't bake a cake and answer the phone at the same time," she wailed.

"No, you can't," soothed Henry Greer, as he put his arm around her. "What you really need, I guess, is an extension telephone near the kitchen."

Telephones where you need them save time, steps, housewifely patience—even scorched cakes. Had Henry Greer but known it, telephones are being installed in kitchens, these days.

Few know that the extra cost of one or two "extensions" is somewhat less than that of the single telephone they now have.

CHICAGO ELECTION DAY KIDNAPING FRUSTRATED

Police Arrive as Candidate for Ward Committeeman Is Cornered by Guermen.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 8.—An election day attempt to kidnap Alderman Sheldon W. Govier, candidate for Democratic committeeman in the Seven-and-a-half Ward, was frustrated by police early today. Three men were arrested. Govier signed complaints charging them with assault with intent to kill.

Seven men, several carrying pistols, attempted to take Alderman Govier from his automobile, which had been crowded to the curb. Govier's nephew, Benjamin, knocked one of the attackers down, but the others had surrounded Govier when a cruising detective squad car arrived.

The seven fled, but three were arrested shortly afterward. They were Harvey Jones, a backer of Govier's committee man opponent, Joseph P. Spiker; Stanley Beckman and Elsworth Wade.

"These fellows were seeking to kidnap me on election day," Govier told police. "I wanted them held without being booked to insure against gun play or kidnaping at the polls, which might occur if they were turned out on ball."

Policemen, with pistols strapped outside their blue coats, patrolled the city today under orders for special vigilance. Detectives, in equipped cars equipped with hot guns, stood watch over polling places.

Democrats, when Congresswoman Ruth Hart McCormick and United States Senator Charles S. Deneen have pulled at opposite ends of the World Court issue in their tug-o'-war for the Republican Senatorial nomination, special precautions against violence and fraud were regarded as unnecessary. But here the law prepared for trouble.

Democrats, too, were nominating a candidate for the United States Senate. The nomination of Senator James Hamilton Lewis, however, was a mere formality for them. They were interested more in seeing who their candidate would have to beat next November at the election—Senator Deneen, with his advocacy of the World Court, or Mrs. McCormick, with her denunciations of it.

NEW REFRIGERANT USED TO PUT OUT FIRE

Fumes of Experimental Compound Are Non-Injurious, Discoverer Says.

By the Associated Press
ATLANTA, Ga., April 8.—Human breath was converted into fire extinguisher at the American Chemical Society meeting today.

Thomas Midgley Jr. of Dayton, O., lit a candle and set it on a table in view of a general session of the chemist. Into a glass dish alongside he poured to the depth of an inch a new liquid refrigerant, the temperature of which he said was 18 degrees below zero.

It began to boil, and the rim of the glass dish turned white with frost.

Dr. Midgley then placed his face directly over the fuming dish, opened his mouth, and inhaled the cold steam. Then he turned to the candle and breathed gently in its direction. The touch of his steam-laden breath smothered the flame.

"This refrigerant," he said, "is non-explosive and we believe non-poisonous. It has not harmed animals. I have breathed quantities of it without lasting bad effects. When I took enough it produced a sort of intoxication."

Dr. Midgley's research is sponsored by General Motors, with Dr. Robert L. Henn co-operating.

The new substance is a combination of fluorine, chlorine and methane. To fluorine Dr. Midgley credited the unusual effects. Some of the effects of fluorine in the refrigerant, he said, were contrary to accepted opinion of how it would react. He forecast increasing safety which would lead to mechanical refrigeration for cooling living rooms.

A day when American women can wear mostly silk garments made cheaply by synthetic chemicals was foreseen in several papers. Prof. Charles E. Mullin of Clemson College said the 1930 output of these silk fabrics in the United States exceeded that of last year by 30 per cent, and would be worth about $150,000,000, an increase of $40,000,000 above that of 1929.

"This country," he said, "makes almost three times as much of this synthetic goods as the next largest—three producing countries combined, Italy, England and Germany. About two-thirds of the American output is from plants south of the Mason and Dixon line."

For cold weather he forecast artificial silk "wools," quoting reports that cheaper methods of making them are coming slowly into practice.

W. Donald Munson, research chemist of the Southern Chemical Cotton Co., Chattanooga, Tenn., was used to make 40,000 tons of synthetic silk goods annually. It is made from the fuzz remaining on cotton seed after the long fibers have been cut off. From this fuzz also is made annually 30,000 tons of material for toiletware, celluloid articles, film, auto lacquers and artificial leather.

CHICAGO LAWYER-PHILOSOPHER
PLUNGES TO DEATH IN RHINE

Herbert F. Brannon Had Written Treatise on Theories of Schopenhauer.

Special to the Post-Dispatch
CHICAGO, April 8.—Herbert F. Brannon, Chicago philosopher and lawyer, plunged to his death in the Rhine at Strasbourg Sunday. Strasbourg authorities doubted he ended his life intentionally, and declared he leaped into the river following a tour of cabarets. Brannon, according to police, had announced he wished to take a cold bath. Members of his party thought he was joking, but workers on the way to their shop saw him diving into the water and gave the alarm.

Brannon, Strasbourg authorities say, arrived in France several weeks before in company with a tourist party. According to his father, Herbert S. Brannon, Peoria, he had been in France three or four weeks.

The young lawyer devoted little time to law. He appeared more interested in writing philosophical treatises. Brannon's last book, called "The Philosophy of Voluntarism," was dedicated to his mother, and was founded on the theories of Schopenhauer.

In his introduction Brannon wrote:

"That a typical American philosophy is formulating can no longer be disputed. Which maxim and postulates, assumptions and belief will finally be the expression of the nation's reflection is not clear. How can it be other than a philosophy of action and volition, rather than one of theory and feeling? Voluntarism, the supremacy of the will over intellectualism, seems our national destiny."

Train Explosion Deaths Reach 30.
TOKIO, April 8.—With the death yesterday of three persons in an Oita, Kyushu, prefecture hospital, the death list resulting from an explosion aboard a train near there was increased to 28. Railroad officials insist that the explosion was caused by dynamite mixed with the coal used in the engine, since fuses of the type used in coal mine blasting were found near the scene of the accident. An investigation in the mines where the railroad gets its coal was started.

NEGROES BARRED FROM USING NAME OF ORDER OF MOOSE

White Society Obtains Injunction, Reversing Decision of Lower Courts in 1925.

Members of the Paramount Progressive Order of Moose, Negro organization, which came into legal conflict with the Supreme Lodge of the World of the Loyal Order of Moose six years ago, must cease to call themselves Moose and must abandon the use of emblems and rituals similar to those used by the white order of Moose.

An injunction requested by the Loyal Order was granted today by the St. Louis Court of Appeals reversing a decision by Circuit Judge Hamilton in 1925. The Loyal Order of Moose, which is composed of 15,000 members in St. Louis, according to Attorney John E. Turner, charged that the Negro organization promised Negro prospects the privileges of the Moose homes at Moosehaven, Ill., and Moosehaven, Fla.

The Negroes contended that if there was any similarity between their organization and that of the white, it was merely a coincidence.

Caulfield to Speak at Moberly.
JEFFERSON CITY, April 8.—Gov. Henry S. Caulfield has accepted an invitation to deliver the principal address at the sixth biennial dinner of the Republican Club of Randolph County at Moberly, April 18. Other speakers will include Judge Milton F. Stahl, chairman of the State Public Service Commission, and Forrest Hanna of Kansas City.

The best way I can describe this sensation is to say that it is deadening. Instead of exhilaration such as is credited to alcohol, these fumes do not rouse the desire to sing or recite poetry. The refrigerant still is in the experimental stage."

After the commission's letter had been written, William H. Williams, chairman of the board of the Wabash, replied that the Wabash did not care to withdraw its application but planned to amend it to conform with the commission's directions.

UMPIRE BAITING WILL BE BARRED AT MISSOURI U.

Suspended for Assauling Umpire Last September

By the Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 8.

A BASEBALL COMMISSIONER KENESAW M. LANDIS yesterday suspended Henry Wingfield, manager of the Keokuk, Ia., club of the Mississippi Valley League for 90 days of the season because of his assault on Umpire George Seibert last September.

By the Associated Press

COLUMBIA, Mo., April 8.—The time-honored sport of "umpire baiting" in baseball games is taboo at the University of Missouri. An edict has been issued by Chester L. Brewer, director of athletics at the University of Missouri, banning the spectacular show of fight or angry arguments with officials when decisions go the wrong way.

"If we can't play baseball at the University of Missouri like gentlemen, we will drop it from the inter-collegiate sports calendar," said the director.

There is no reason why the player cannot show the same sportsmanlike philosophy in accepting an adverse decision in baseball than the football or basketball player exhibits.

"The college athlete plays football and basketball with a true amateur philosophy, but on the baseball diamond their attitude is that of the professional, fighting and bickering with the officials."

Director Brewer said the Tiger coaches had agreed to carry out the plan, and that hereafter Missouri baseball teams would be instructed to take the bad breaks without a stormy protest.

Opponents of the Tigers will be informed of the Missouri plan, Brewer said, as well as the officials. What the other teams do about it is their own affair, he added.

SEVEN CALIFORNIA BOXERS IN SECOND ROUND OF A. A. U. TOURNAMENT

CARTER KAYOES TITLE HOLDER OF HONOLULU IN AN EXTRA SESSION

By the Associated Press.
BOSTON, April 8.—Amateur boxers from San Francisco made the best showing in the first round bouts of the National A. A. U. amateur boxing championship tournament when they came to an end here early today. The Golden Gate battlers had four victories to their credit out of four starts. Three others on the California team drew byes and will not get into action until tonight's second round trials.

The glove teams from New Orleans and Chicago each scored three victories. Boston, Worcester, Cleveland, New York and Washington were each able to present two winners to the 500 spectators, and seven other cities, including far-off Honolulu, each had a victorious boxer. The others were Grand Rapids, Uniontown, Pa., Norwich, Conn., Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Portland, Ore.

Only Three Real Kayos.

Thirty bouts were fought in the first round program, 22 going the full round, three rounds, three ending with legitimate knockouts and four being stopped by the referee. Only two of 22 decisions were close enough to force the boxers to go extra rounds.

One of these overtime affairs, the 125-pound clash between Norman White of New Orleans and Stanley Zubinsky of Grand Rapids, was the most sensational affair of the opening session. These boys piled up points about equally in the three rounds, but the New Orleans entry finished the stronger at slugging toe-to-toe with his rival for nine minutes. In the extra session, White's wild left and right hooks landed often enough to draw the favorable attention of the judges.

No Champions Competing.

Though minus all of the eight 1929 champions, the battling in this current championship tournament appeared to be much more scintillating than in previous years. The improvement was due to the various A. A. U. sectional organizations which picked their teams with much more care than in the past.

Ninety-four boxers weighed in and of this number but 60 saw action in the first round battles. All of the survivors, the victors and those favored by the draw, will bathe tonight when 32-second round bouts will be put on. When these are over, the field will be whittled down to the semifinal stage in each of the eight divisions.

Turfmen Elect Officers.

WITH Steelcote, you can paint your own car to look like a factory finish.

Why? Because Steelcote is that rubber base enamel.

It flows itself on without a brush mark, lap or streak, leaving a smooth, brilliant finish that looks and lasts like baked enamel.

You can use Steelcote right over old lacquer, paint or any can finish. Being elastic, it won't crack, chip or peel, and stays glistening new months after ordinary finishes are weather-beaten.

Why drive a shabby car when you can paint your car like new so easily?

SPORT SALAD

by L. Davis

The Kansas City Blues.

THE sporting news gives us the blues. Our hearts are filled with pity: Our Brownies blow three in a row. To dear old Kansas City.

When we peruse the sporting news:

We can't see first division: Out of Sam Gray who knocked the whey.

With elation and precision:

We've got those Kansas City Blues.

A most malign infection: Our Brownies choose three straight to lose.

And hence that Blue complexion.

When we a thousand other hues:

They might as well be picking. They choose the Kansas City Blues!

And take three-ply tickling.

Take Your Choice.

It's hard to say whether the crushing defeat of the Browns by the Kansas City Blues is off, on the American Association or the American League. It depends on the point of view.

See where Babe Ruth injured an 88,000-ton in a 16-cent ball game down in Texas. Another example of the uncertainties of spring exhibitions.

PINKY KAUFMAN PICKED TO BOX KING TUT HERE

Bowling Notes

Miss L. Trotter, with her father, C. Trotter, won the mixed doubles contest at the Arway Recreation parlor Sunday with a score of 1225. Mrs. A. W. Boeselman and E. Roy Flest, won second prize with 1135, and Mrs. M. Wetzel and D. B. Denner, with 1117, won third prize. Mrs. W. Frederick and E. Detmer won the single game prize.

The North Side Chevrolets leaders in the Florissant Business Men's League, and the South Side Chevrolets Missouri Stat and city champions and leaders of the Major City League, will meet in a special three-game match at the Florissant arena Monday night, April 21. Kaufman is the only fighter to have scored a clean knockout of "the King." He stopped Tut in two rounds at Philadelphia last year. Kaufman has met such good fighters as Baby Joe Gans, Bruce Muller, Tommy Kid Murphy, Ray Mitchell, Mickey Walker and others. He fights at 140 pounds.

On March 31 at Stamford, Conn., defeated Billy Allegs without much trouble and last Thursday, April 3 at Hartford, Conn., he stopped Clicky Clark in the first minute of the first round.

Easter Opening

April 12th to 19th

There is no more appropriate time than the week preceding Easter to present formally the Cadillac-La Salle line. From the La Salle and Cadillac V-type Eights to the custom Cadillac V-16, these models offer a range in variety and choice not obtainable in the combined products of all other makers. This Easter Showing has been arranged to provide every opportunity for you to examine and study these cars, and will include, in addition to the eight-cylinder Cadillac and La Salle, such sixteen-cylinder Cadillacs as purchasers will permit the dealer to retain. The Showing extends from April 12th to 19th. An inspection of these cars will prove invaluable in the right selection of your car.

your floors so beautiful in just . . .

30 minutes a month

NOW it's easy to keep floors lovely in a few minutes a month—without messy upset—and with less work than sweeping. Give them instant double lustre that will last for weeks and weeks with one application of Old English Wax. A few minutes—a few cents.

Every floor can be made to glisten with a wonderful sheen, so utterly hard that it is impervious to scratches, heel-marks, and children's romps. Only Old English Wax can give such a surface because it contains the highest percentage of the finest imported Carnauba Wax

That's why it brings beauty to polished, shellacked, or painted. Be sure and get the genuine Old English Wax if you want the best results.

Sold at hardware, paint, drug, department stores. Made by the A. S. Boyle Co., Cincinnati, Ohio, U. S. A. Try it!

ENGINES HAVE SOLOS IN NEW GERMAN OPERA

Iron Deity Dominates Human Beings in "Machinist Hopkins."

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, April 8.—An iron opera, singing the metallic dithyrambs of three human beings caught among the complexities of modern mechanized life, is starting the musical loves of Berlin.

The name "Machinist Hopkins" would lead one to expect a musical dramatization of factory life, but few who attended the opening of the Berlin civic opera production were prepared for the extent to which this idea is carried out.

Max Brand, the young Viennese composer of "Machinist Hopkins"—which is his first opera—conceived the towering machine as the main character.

PAUL DANA, FORMER NEW YORK EDITOR, DIES

He Succeeded His Father, Charles A., as Head of Sun.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, April 8.—Paul Dana, son of the celebrated Charles A. Dana and editor in chief of the New York Sun from 1896 to 1902, died yesterday of pneumonia. He was 77 years old.

As the son of one of America's greatest journalists, who also was editor and part owner of the Sun, the younger Dana had been reared in the atmosphere of journalistic tradition.

As a young man he forsook a legal career for which he had prepared himself, to join the staff of the Sun. He became editor in chief upon his father's death. He was born in New York. He attended Harvard University and later was graduated at Columbia Law School in 1878 and admitted to the bar.

His wife died in 1922. Surviving are a daughter, Janet, the wife of Dr. Walter L. Lippman; two sons, Andrew and Duncan Dana, and two sisters.

He was a member of the Board of Park Commissioners from 1890 to 1894, and during the World War was a member of the commission for relief in Belgium, stationed at Namur in 1915.

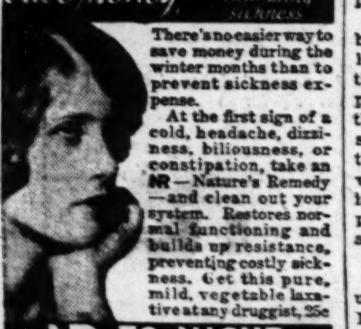

Since the death of his wife, Dana had made his home at the University Club. For many years he had a home at Dorsoris Island, near Glen Cove, L. I., where his father had maintained a large estate.

HOUSE INQUIRY INTO RAIL HOLDING FIRMS

Committee to Send Questionnaires Regarding Ownership of Lines.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Seven hundred holding and investment trust companies, 175 class one railroads, their subsidiaries and numerous forwarding companies are to come within the scope of the House Interstate Commerce Committee's investigation into railroad ownership.

As plans went forward to resume open hearings tomorrow with Commissioner Joseph E. Eastman of the Interstate Commerce Commission on the stand, Congressman Rayburn of Texas, the ranking minority member of the committee, announced that questionnaires would be sent to the holding and investment companies before the end of the week. Already questionnaires have been mailed to the class one railroads which demand an accounting of all their holdings and the owners of their securities.

Rayburn estimated that the investigation would require 15 months. About 30 days are to be allowed the holding companies in which to answer the questionnaires, while the railroads probably will be granted 60 days. The answers are to be studied by a staff of experts under the direction of Dr. W. J. Swerling, special committee counsel.

Holdings of Van Swerling.

Upon the recommendations of the experts the committee will determine whether the books of the different railroads, holding and investment companies are to be examined at their headquarters. Subcommittees are to be appointed to inquire into the holdings of the Allegheny Corporation, controlled by the Van Swerling interests of Cleveland, and the Pennsylvania System.

These inquiries, however, are not to be made until late in the year. Books of other companies probably will be examined.

Although the investigation is being conducted to ascertain what legislation is necessary to place the holding and investment companies under the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission, Rayburn pointed out that the committee also must determine whether necessary authority exists to place them under the supervision of the governmental agency.

Directed at Holding Companies.

The inquiry was undertaken upon the recommendations of the Interstate Commerce Commission, which feared that the plans of the Government to bring about the consolidation of the country's 1500 railroads into 21 large systems were being thwarted by holding companies which do not operate railroads, but which control substantial voting power if not absolute control.

Interlocking directorates and widely distributed holdings by both railroads and holding companies were discussed Saturday by Commissioner Eastman at the opening hearing. Tomorrow he will give his observations of the operations of forwarding companies, which handle freight shipments over the various railroad lines.

Congressman Says Harrison Law, in Force 15 Years, Has Had "Fair Trial."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—A congressional investigation of the enforcement of the Harrison antinarcotic law was demanded in the House yesterday by Congressman John J. Cochran (Dem.) of St. Louis. Cochran spoke in support of the Porter bill for the establishment of a separate narcotic bureau, which was later passed without a record vote. The bill had the support of the American Medical Association.

Quoting a recent Post-Dispatch editorial, Cochran insisted that Congress could give a great service by making a thorough investigation to determine whether the Harrison act had been successful in curbing the drug evil. "This law, enacted 15 years ago, certainly has had a beneficial effect," he said.

"The law has filled the Federal and state penitentiaries to such an extent that Congress has passed a law authorizing an appropriation for the construction of two farms where men and women drug addicts are to be confined. Certainly this was not necessary 15 years ago. The St. Louis Post-Dispatch, one of the leading newspapers of the country, has raised the question as to whether the Harrison act is a failure. It says two new classes of addicts have been created by the act: the peddlers of drugs and those who turn to crime in order to pay the exorbitant prices which the peddlers demand. The paper contends that the Government statistics alone would warrant a thorough investigation by Congress."

A Romance of Some Folks Who Might Be in Your Own Office—Or Your Neighbor's

SYNOPSIS OF OPENING CHAPTER

IF PEOPLE even wondered why the employees of the Eaton Advertising Agency, nine stories above Park Avenue, were so fiercely loyal to their chief, they would have been answered if they could have heard him laugh. Occasionally women said that Lawrence Eaton was the most attractive man of their acquaintance. His friend, Jameson, hearing that magnetic laughter, did not doubt it. "Well, what's the joke?" he asked, grinning in sympathy.

"It's the Dickens the way a man gets to depend on his secretary, isn't it?" said Eaton. "Miss Andrews has been—splendid—but it looks as if she had outlived her usefulness here." * * * Nerves."

"Nerves? No wonder she has them. She has a right to crawl with them! No emotional outlet, my boy; and you or I or any man knows what that means." Jameson's tone was his own, but he had not spent all his life clipping coupons.

"I don't see it," Eaton said stubbornly; but he did see it, being no fool, and his heart sank. Latterly Janet Andrews had been close to tears much of the time. And she had fussed over him so. She had been far worse than a wife—than his wife, at any rate.

When Janet went home for the day with a headache, Eaton went into the office of Timothy Sanders, the vice-president, and borrowed Anne Murdock, Sanders' secretary, to help him out.

CHAPTER TWO.

ANNE was with Eaton now, in his office. She waited while he attended to a message that had been brought in and, waiting, looked about the room with an appreciation which never failed, no matter how often she saw it. In the last six months she had come almost daily to Miss Andrews' office, bringing memoranda from Sanders to Eaton, and always had looked longingly through the door between, and—once or twice when Eaton was not there, she had gone in.

Now she could study the room. It had such beauty, she thought, she could spend a year here and never see enough of it. She loved beauty intuitively and wistfully, and it had not much entered into her life. Her own house was comfortable. It was glaringly modern in the enjoyment of electric lights, shining radio and phonograph and lurid chintzes. But it had no magic.

Where beauty reached her it did so through the pages of magazines and books, through an occasional play or motion picture, through eventful trips into the country—country that was not merely half city; stretches of beach and sea which did not border on asphalt pavements. And now, touching her life more closely, had come these glimpses into Eaton's quiet office with its suggestion of money spent for loveliness, of a busy, ordered life that yet took thought for the hunger of the spirit.

Now Eaton spoke to her in that dangerously magnetic voice, handing her Miss Andrews' notes. "Do you think you can read these, Miss Murdock?" he asked. "Or shall I start over again?"

Anne looked at the pothooks with accustomed eye. "Yes, I think I can manage, Mr. Eaton. Will you take up your dictation where you left off?"

Eaton flashed her an appreciative smile. It was rather rare to find a girl who could read another secretary's notes, he thought. And thought, too, as he dictated smoothly, that it was ever rarer—and amazingly pleasant—to be working with so pretty and young a person. His terse, crisp phrases continuing evenly, he saw how easily Anne's pencil kept pace with them.

Well, Janet Andrews had been a feeling that in studying Eaton's demands through the unconscious medium of Miss Andrews she was doing anything unethical. If her chance came to her, who shouldn't she take it? She was younger than Andrews; she was well equipped; she was infinitely better looking.

People said that appearance, personality didn't count. But Anne knew better, and she was honest about it—with herself. Larry Eaton was a man as other men. And a woman in business had need of every weapon she could employ to hold her job, and the man who controlled the job. Well, if she got this job, thought Anne, she'd hold it!

MISS ANDREWS returned to the office on the following day, perceptibly nervous beneath her air of schooled repression. Eaton, who had worked late the previous evening, remained long after he had let Anne Murdock go, arrived at the office somewhat later than was his custom and found Janet at her desk. He spoke to her pleasantly, determined to ignore the scene—and its implications—of the afternoon before.

But she said, timidly enough: "I am so sorry about yesterday." "That's all right," he told her. "I hope your headache is better." It wasn't. But she lied mechanically. "Oh, yes, thank you." But I was worried about the letter to Mr. Goddard."

"Miss Murdock got it out for me," he said, and went on into his room, concluding that after "Miss Murdock" the presence of Miss Andrews was a considerable let-down.

The early morning routine having been disposed of, Janet Andrews drew a deep breath and sat tense and erect at her desk, her hands idle, staring at the wall upon which she seemed to see the inevitable hand-writing. What a hideous night she had put behind her—hours of endless sleeplessness, bitter self-reproach and opening roses—

To work—with the chief! Well, why shouldn't she—permanently? Since her coming into his business she had planned every step to reach this particular goal. Had cultivated the uninspiring friendship of Janet Andrews un-inspiringly, that is, in itself. Had learned the man's secretarial requirements, and his personal needs as well.

It was on the cards that Andrews would go some day and Anne had prepared herself to fill that hypothetical vacant place. She had no

"I am going to give you a leave of absence, Miss Andrews," Eaton told her. "But his deliberate kindness was disregarded. Her mouth shook as she asked hoarsely, 'Does that mean that I am—dismissed?'"

She did not appear ridiculous to him.

He left the sentence unfinished. Yet she felt as if she had watched him sign her death warrant.

She drew nearer, her hands clasped before her in a futile endeavor to still their tremor.

"I'm all right," she managed.

"It was temporary. Please, please don't send me away from you," she implored, so desperately unhappy that she did not realize what she was saying.

Eaton felt ashamed, curiously humiliated, as if he had received a wound in the spirit through this sword of revelation. And at the same time, being masculine, he was angry. Why did people call Monday "blue"? And Betty Howard, whose boy was well on the road to recovery, had prophesied during a luncheon hour snatched together.

"You'll get Andrews' job. She'll never come back."

"Mr. Eaton says she will," Anne said, arguing against her own ambitions and happiness in a way women have.

"You let that mislead you? When a man gives his secretary a vacation because she serves him well, there is more in it than meets the eye. No bell never takes her back. Men can't be annoyed with norrey in their offices. They have enough of them at home."

"Look here," asked Anne suddenly. "I fell into this; I didn't try deliberately to get the job away from her, but if she doesn't return to me, I'll never take her back. Men can't be annoyed with norrey in their offices. They have enough of them at home."

"You see, Miss Andrews, how quickly you become upset? I am not sending you away. I am giving you a leave of absence with a good chance to recover your health and return to us."

In another moment she would cry. She knew it and he knew it.

She said, "Thank you," in a low tone and walked back to her office.

By some stupendous feat of will she managed to get her things together and to crawl wearily home to the little flat. She'd seen this sort of thing happen before to other women—the tactful granting of leave. Well, in six weeks' time she'd be looking for another job.

When she left at the end of a terrible week the fiction was kept up between her and Eaton.

"The work?" she wanted to know when she was saying good-by to him. "Good-by," she thought dully, means God be with you.

But it seemed that he had ceased to be with her.

"I've arranged with Mr. Sanders to borrow Miss Murdock for the time being," he answered.

So she had that to take home with her—the definite knowledge of her suitor.

When she was gone, Eaton had the same thoughts of her without anger—for the love of a woman doesn't want a man in one of two ways according to his character and the quality of his mind—or pride; either it affords him smugness, complacency and a little scorn, or it annoys him. It had annoyed Eaton. Yet he thought he understood, "for he knew better than most men the dangers of repression, the bursting of carefully bulled dams."

To Anne Murdock he said briefly: "Mr. Sanders will let me have you for the duration of Miss Andrews' absence."

Anne laughed. "Darling, you do me, don't you? Kathleen isn't writing herself or any one else by me lip-stick and a cigarette now and then. I've been known to indulge in both myself."

"If I'd carried on that way," remarked Mrs. Murdock, "my old mother—rest her soul—would have killed me, and well I'd have deserved it!"

Variety in New Capes

MULTANEOUSLY WITH THE introduction of the capes by the couture in Paris, smart metropolitan shops are displaying numerous capes for both day and evening.

Blond fox borders a belted cape of beige colored suede finished fabric. The worsted suit wears a high shoulder cape. And the frock of printed silk for mild weather is given a new air when completed by a separate tie-on cape to match. This latter has great chic when the print is a small floral or a pin dot.

The cape them flourishes for evening dress, playing a seductive role with the lace or the printed chiffon frock. Separate and distinctive capes take the place of the wrap with sleeves. A lovely spring cape of pink taffeta is lined with baby blue.

The Common Sty

NOTHER reason why the movie companies are thinking twice lately before signing actors to those "long-term" contracts is to be seen in the case of Carlotta King.

She was recently drawing for a year without appearing in a picture. Miss King played opposite Alan Bates in "The Desert Song" for Warner Bros. and on the strength of her performance and vocal ability was signed next to a contract by M-G-M.

In the ensuing months she was tested for several roles. None could be found that suited her. But during the term of her contract she received a weekly salary ranging near the $1000 mark.

For four weeks she was loaned to a local stage production and sang at numerous midnight matinees in local theaters, but financially her contract represented financial loss.

There are others who have been in the same predicament. The young college athlete who played a movie actor, Joel McCrea, has been under contract to M-G-M for an extended period.

He has been used for dozens of the first-time popular backstage talkies. She is short, plump, perky as ever, Miss Grummett, who was staging a "musical comedy."

With those qualities, and a voice to match, it was inevitable she should develop a yen for the stage. She gratified it by a night course in a good dramatic school which was staging a "musical comedy."

When the play opened, she should be taken to keep the infection from spreading to other points in the eyelid. This may be accomplished by the use of weak sodium bicarbonate solutions. Where, however, this simple precaution does not suffice, it may be taken for granted that the cause is deeper seated and medical help should be sought.

HERB followed ventures in small-time vaudeville with her sister, sometimes heartbreaking, sometimes encouraging, events, yielding experience. Eventually, when their act was deemed enough to New York, they struck out for the city with $12!

Jobs were hard to find, but they found them.

Neighborhood theaters, small presentation houses in Jersey, one thing and another, but they got along. Then came Zelma's big break—the "Good News" role.

THE following yarn, told as true at a recent banquet, may or may not be exaggerated, but it aptly illustrates one form of movie "efficiency."

He was playing in an orchestra, writing songs on the side, and making about $80 a week. A movie executive called him in one day and offered him a song-writing contract, which was accepted.

"Now about salary," he said, "what do you think?"

"I don't know," was the answer, "suppose you suggest."

"How about $250?"

The executive looked crest-fallen. Eighty a week was more than $250 a month.

"Well," hastily and apologetically, "suppose we make it $400 a week to start?"

The song writer only gulped.

THE next day someone took him in charge and asked where he'd like his office.

The composer idled while they built him a stucco bungalow. When finished, it was a beauty.

At last the song writer set to work. Then one day, he met on the lot the executive who had signed him.

"Hello!" said the chief. "Where've you been all this time?"

"Waiting for them to build this office."

"What! An office? Way over here? That'll never do! I want you near mine, so we can talk things over now and then."

The song writer was moved again—piano and all—but not until he rested while a new bungalow was built.

He ruling has influenced Mary Goodine Corinne Griffith's former secretary, who, one day for fun, took a dietetic test and was signed for the chorus, to dieting.

Once before the camera, there's telling what opportunities may be, and slimmers is preparedness.

The rigid "13-day diet" is passing now, but many are finding means to shed excess pounds.

Molly O'Day, whose career seemed under the blight of weight, has succeeded in losing enough to resume picture work. Mary Lewis' reduction is the one of all who count their calories.

Real-life dieting served movie purposes well in the case of Marlene Dietrich, comedienne, who was trying to lose a few pounds anyway when she was cast as the prima donna of "Fat Wives for Thin."

The Common Sty

STIES are common and painful afflictions affecting the eyes.

They are of two sorts, the so-called internal sty, and the external sty. The latter is the more common. Both types are due to infection with pus-producing bacteria.

But the external sty involves eyelash and its sebaceous (oil) glands, while the internal sty involves the so-called meibomian glands.

While sties are immediately due to pus-producing bacteria, they are most common in those whose personal hygiene and whose general body resistance is not what it should be.

Defective, uncorrected vision may also contribute to the development of sties; so, too, may constipation, improper diet and the habit of fingering the face, especially about the eyes.

Sties occur at all ages, but are more common in young adults. They often appear in crops.

The history of a sty is somewhat as follows: A red swelling appears at the margin of the lid. The point is painful, tender to the touch, and may be quite swollen. After a while a yellowish point appears in the swelling, showing that pus has formed.

By the application of cold compresses to the eyelid it is sometimes possible to stop a sty in the process of formation. Where this does not prove effective, hot compresses may be applied instead to hasten the "opening" of the sty.

When the sty has formed, care should be taken to keep the infection from spreading to other points in the eyelid. This may be accomplished by the use of weak sodium bicarbonate solutions. Where, however, this simple precaution does not suffice, it may be taken for granted that the cause is deeper seated and medical help should be sought.

The internal sty has a different history. It usually develops more slowly and involves the eyelid above the margin.

Creamed Radishes

Use the large radishes. Pare, dice and place in cold water a few minutes. Have ready a rich sauce made of cream and butter.

When melted shortening is used in baking it is a good idea to melt it in the pan in which you expect to bake. It saves one more article to be washed and helps to grease your pan in the bargain.

A Little Less Work

When melted shortening is used in baking it is a good idea to melt it in the pan in which you expect to bake. It saves one more article to be washed and helps to grease your pan in the bargain.

When bleaching a floor with citric acid solution (which is a powder) just cover the wood with thin coating of the solution, allow this to dry, then remove all traces of the acid by thoroughly washing with several changes of water.

When transferring feathers from one pillow to another, baste the openings of the two pillows together and you will fill the new pillow without wasting a feather.

If you are refinishing a floor, remember floors should not be lighter in color than the walls.

If there is any paint left after you finish painting, pour melted paraffin over the top of it just as you do on your jelly, and you will find the paint in excellent condition next time you want to use it.

Use the old tennis racket to beat the rug and carpets and it will not hurt the hand nor will it damage the rug.

NEW WAY TO PREPARE LAMB CHOPS

Addition of Novel Seasoning Improves Their Flavor

This new method really begins before the chops are put on the broiler or in the pan.

First make a mixture of ½ teaspoonful salt, 1 teaspoonful sugar, 1 teaspoonful vinegar or lemon juice and 5 tablespoonsfuls of salad oil.

Pour this over the chops and let stand for a few minutes, then fry or broil them and you will be delighted with the way this seasoning brightens the flavor of the lamb.

If you wish you can use the mixture to baste the chops as they cook.

The sugar is a most important ingredient of the mixture just described because it blends the salt, lemon juice and oil into a smooth, piquant goodness.

A dash of sugar to a pinch of salt is a good rule to follow in many other kinds of cooking. In cooking vegetables this combination noticingly and pleasantly emphasizes the flavor of carrots, spinach, string beans, cabbage and peas. Doctors approve the use of sugar as a flavor on these essential foods because it arouses the appetite to eat more of them. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute.

WALL STREET
BULL FORCES DOMINATE IN STOCK TRADE; SALES LARGE

Close is Irregularly Higher —Aggressive Operations in Select Assortment of Issues.

ALL MONEY IS 3 1/2 PER CENT
renewal of Selling Takes Place in Some of the Coppers and Specialties in Last Hour.

The Associated Press
NEW YORK, April 8.—Aggressive operations in a select group of utility and food shares offset the general of selling on some of the specimens and specialties in the last hour of trading today, and prices closed irregularly higher. Final quotations generally showed some concessions from the day's high level, but at no time was the leadership of the "bull" forces threatened.

Trading, which started off at a moderate pace, picked up towards the close, the day's sales again exceeding the 5,000,000-share mark.
Steels failed to make much progress, U. S. Steel commanding nearly 8 points lower at 184 and thicker showed a fractional line at 107 1/2.

The sudden run-up in the marketing issues was characterized as a drive against the short interest on expectations that leading chain stores and department store companies would show a substantial gain in April earnings as a result of heavy Easter business.
Interstate Department Stores and Mars-Roebeck each ran up more than 8 points and Montgomery Ward, Associated Dry Goods and Leibman & Straus sold 1 or more points higher.

Some Unfavorable News.

The market was forced to contend with a number of unfavorable business developments.

A reduction from 4 to 3 1/2 per cent in the call money rate helped to stimulate bullish operations.

Bridgestreet's reported that the value of building permits in 193 cities in March was $149,751,491, as compared with $104,205,106 in February and $81,096,272 in March of last year.

Iron Age stated that "with tennaces mixed and in many instances neutralizing one another, the iron and steel market lacks a definite trend." Operations of the U. S. Steel Corporation are reported to have declined from 81 to 77 per cent of capacity and for the month of April from 78 to 76 per cent. One of the other weekly trade journals, however, reports an increase in operations.

Business news was again disappointing. Freight car loadings showed a moderate increase above the preceding week, but were below the corresponding week of last year, and at the lowest for several years. The bringing in of a big gusher in Texas was held responsible for the increase in crude oil production last week. Dow Jones reported a moderate decline in steel operations.

J. I. Case Strong.

J. I. Case ran up more than 10 points to 116, to which above 200 and retained all but a couple of points of its gain on reports of record-breaking first quarter earnings, estimated in some quarters as high as $14 a share. The stock is now selling more than 100 points above the year's low. Gold Dust closed more than 2 points higher.
Thompson products, which recently obtained some valuable contracts from automobile companies, also sold at a new high record.

Brooklyn Union Gas was marked up 3 points and retained all but a fraction of its gain. Public Services of New Jersey ran up more than 3 points to a new high.
Consolidated Gas also moved into high ground, closing at 127, up 5%.
American Telephone showed a net gain of 5% at 273¢ after selling slightly above that figure.

Heavies dropped out in some of the rail shares. New York Central, Union Pacific and a few others dropped a point or more.

Wheat futures closed fractionally higher. Corn also improved fractionally. Cotton prices closed 40 cents a bale higher to 40 cents a bale lower.

Foreign exchanges were slightly reactive. Sterling cables had stayed around 84.88¢.

Stock prices, with other tables and market news, will be found on pages 12C, 13C, 14C and 15C.
